

KORTENKAMP FAMILY HISTORY

Daniel J. Kortenkamp (January 29, 2015)
e-mail: dkortenk@uwsp.edu

The earliest documented Kortenkamp in this history is Johann Christoph Korttenkamp.¹ [See Heinrich Kortenkamp Ancestor Tree in the Appendix] It is not known where he was born, but he was born about 1707. The name of his father is not known; however, his mother's name was Christina [maiden name unknown]. Where she was born is not known, but she was born about 1670, and died sometime after 1748.

Johann Christoph Korttenkamp married Anna Maria Westhuss on November 5, 1745, in St. Lucia Church, Harsewinkel, Kreis Wiedenbrück, Prussia [now Harsewinkel, Kr. Gütersloh, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. Anna Maria Westhuss was born about 1725, but where is not known. She did not live in Harsewinkel before her marriage.

Johann Christoph and Anna Maria [Westhuss] Korttenkamp lived in the Bauerschaft Oester at Marienfeld (near Harsewinkel), Westphalia, Prussia [now Harsewinkel-Marienfeld, Kr. Gütersloh, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. A Bauerschaft is a group of farms treated as a village, but with no village center (perhaps, more correctly, a "farm collective."). Johann Christoph Korttenkamp was an "Eigenhörig" ("serf") to the Cistercian "Kloster" (monastery) at Marienfeld (established 1185). Johann Christoph Korttenkamp is also listed as a "Kötter." Typically, a Kötter was a man on a farm with a little cottage and a little land to help feed his family. They and their family usually had side jobs to supplement their income. Many wives and children spun and wove home-grown flax into linen. Some would make brooms and brushes, and some would knit socks. They were peasants, very poor and desperate people.

While living at Marienfeld, Johann Christoph and Anna Maria [Westhuss] Korttenkamp had several children:

Johan Christoph, baptized March 19, 1748. Died May 3, 1797, Herzebrock, Westphalia. Burial in
- married Anna Maria Gnegel, August 7, 1782, St. Lucia Church, Harsewinkel.
- children: Catherine Elisabeth (died age 3 weeks), Everhard (), Otto Henrich (), Jacob (), Johann Henrich (Elisabeth Strothoff), and Peter Henrich ().

[Johann Christoph Kortenkamp worked as a hired man.]
[Mrs. Johann Christoph (Anna Maria Gnegel) Kortenkamp was baptized March 13, 1763, Herzebrock, Westphalia, Prussia (Germany); daughter of Johann and Anna Catharina (Kerstien) Gnegel. She died July 14, 1798, at Herzebrock; burial in .]

Johann Friderich, baptized January 10, 1751. Died December 26, 1768?, at Harsewinkel?

- children:

Jacob, baptized August 16, 1756. Died
- married Anna Maria Johanfrans, October 28, 1783, St. Lucia Church, Harsewinkel.
- children: Anna Catharina (died in infancy?), Anna Maria (Mrs.), Anna Catharina (Mrs.), Johann Everhard (), Ann Elisabeth (Mrs.)

Anna Maria, born July 23, 1759; baptized July 25, 1759. Died
- married
- children:

Johann Christoph Korttenkamp may have died January 28, 1764, at Marienfeld. It is not known when or where Anna Maria [Westhuss] Korttenkamp died.

On October 30, 1770, after the serfs marched on the monastery protesting burdensome taxes and other abuses, the new enlightened abbot of the monastery signed an agreement freeing the serfs. Two-hundred and forty-four serfs signed the agreement. They were now free to hold public offices, join guilds, bake their own bread, brew their own beer, sell their possessions, and move elsewhere. One of the serfs signing the agreement was “Eberhard Kortenkamp.” It is not known if or how he is related to the Kortenkamps in this history.²

Johan Christopher Kortenkamp, son of Johann Christoph and Anna Maria [Westhuss] Kortenkamp, married Anna Maria Gneigeler/Gnegel, August 7, 1782, St. Lucia Church, Harsewinkel (witnesses: Jacob Kortenkamp & Anna Catharina Holtshöt?). Anna Maria Gnegel was born at Herzebrock, in the Bauerschaft Groppe, and baptized on March 13, 1763, in St. Christina Church, Herzebrock, Kreis Wiedenbrück, Westphalia, Prussia [now Herzebrock-Clarholz, Kr. Gütersloh, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. Her parents were Johann and Anna Catharina [Kerstien] Gnegel.

While living at Harsewinkel, Johan and Anna Maria [Gnegel] Kortenkamp had several children:

Catharina Elisabeth, baptized September 16, 1783. Died October 11, 1783, Harsewinkel.

Everhard, baptized September 8, 1784. Died

- married
- children:

Otto Henrich, baptized December 22, 1786. Died

- married
- children:

Jacob, baptized December 18, 1788. Died

- married
- children:

Johann Christoph and Anna Maria [Gnegel] Kortenkamp then moved about 5 miles south to the Bauerschaft Bredeck at Herzebrock, where he was a hired man. They had at least two more children:

Johann Heinrich, born August 29, 1791. Died October 17, 1856, at Münster, Westphalia. Burial in St. Lambert Cemetery.

- married Elisabeth Strothoff, July 6, 1830, in St. Mauritz Church, Münster.
- children: Gertrude (Mrs. Ignatz Summer), Stephen Anton (Catholic priest), Caspar Heinrich (died in infancy), Caspar Heinrich (Joesphine Schermer), Herman Anton (single), Franz Joseph Ignatz (single).

[Johann Heinrich Kortenkamp worked as a Tagelöhner (daylaborer).]

[Mrs. Johann Heinrich (Elisabeth Strothoff) Kortenkamp was born _____, 1803?, at Füchtorf, Westphalia, Germany, daughter of _____. She died December 6, 1856, in her “52nd year”; burial in St. Lambert Cemetery, Münster.]

Peter Heinrich, born March 23, 1794. Died _____, at _____ Burial in _____

- married
- children:

Johann Christoph Kortenkamp died May 3, 1797, at “age 48”; and his wife Anna Maria [Gnegel] died July 14, 1798, at “age 27”(??). Both died at Herzebrock.

Johann Heinrich Kortenkamp, son of Johann Christoph and Anna Maria [Gnegel] Kortenkamp, eventually moved to Münster, Westphalia, Prussia [now Münster, Kr. Münster, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. He married Elisabeth Strothoff on July 6, 1830, in St. Mauritz Church, Münster. Elizabeth Strothoff was 27 years old and had been born in Füchtorf, Kreis Warendorf, Westphalia [now Füchtorf, part of Sassenberg, Kr. Warendorf, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. Her father was a “Heuermann” (hired man).

Johann Heinrich Kortenkamp, a “Tagelöhner” (day laborer), lived with his wife, Elisabeth [Strothoff], in a cottage on a farm at Bauerschaft Mecklenbeck Nr. 2, about one mile SW of Münster. There is a street named “Kortenkamp” in Mecklenbeck, a suburb about 2 miles SW of Münster.³

Johann Heinrich and Elisabeth [Strothoff] Kortenkamp had six children:

Gertrude Engelberta., born September 26, 1831/32. Died June 19, 1884 [“in her 52nd year”], at Dyersville, Iowa. Burial in _____

- married Ignatz Summer, May 4, 1869, in St. Francis Xavier Church, at Dyersville.

I am grateful to Axel Schmetzke, Stevens Point, WI, who translated two chapters from this book about the revolt of the serfs and their eventual freedom.

³ The name “Kortenkamp” consists of “kurz” and “kamp” (“short” and “field”). According to correspondence with the Münster Stadtarchiv and with Klaus Bussmeyer, Hamburg, a “Kortenkamp” was originally the small part of a field where the plow turned around. This was also the small pathway for traveling to and from various fields. On an 1828 map of Mecklenbeck there is a small field named “Kortenkamp”. The street name probably came from this field. By the way, there is a field next to “Kortenkamp” named “Langenkamp” (“long” and “field”) There are streets named “Kortenkamp” in several towns in Germany – in North Rhine-Westphalia (Arnsberg, Gladbeck, Münster-Mecklenbeck, Telgte, Westbevern-Ostbevern), in Niedersachsen (Osterholz-Scharmbeck, and Ganderkesee), and in Schleswig-Holstein (Großhansdorf, Neustadt, and Schashagen).

[Gertrude Kortenkamp worked as a cook in Germany. She emigrated from the port of Bremen, Germany, on the clipper steamship Hermann; and arrived in the port of New York, April 30, 1863.]

[Ignatz Summer was born December 4, 1845, Weiler, Voralberg, Tyrol, Austria; son of Frank Joseph and Barbara (Peter) Summer. He was the eighth child in a family of fifteen. His father was very wealthy -- engaged in the mercantile business, owning a hotel and a large estate. He spent much time hunting, and was accidentally killed during one of his hunts. At the age of sixteen, Ignatz went to Switzerland to learn fine art painting. He immigrated April 20 1867, to New York City, aboard the Mississippi from Palmoth, England, and La Havre, France. Several of his brothers also immigrated. He spent three years in Dubuque following his profession of painting and decorating. He then came to Dyersville, where he became a prominent business man -- operating a carriage, wagon and plow factory (Eagle Point Plow and Wagon Works), owning a grocery store, being a member of the School Board, and being Alderman. After his wife Gertrude (Kortenkamp) died, he married Elizabeth Holscher on January 7, 1885, Dyersville. They had several children -- Henry J. (Millie Brockman), Caroline T. (Mrs. Al Gaynor), Ida M. (Mrs. Charles Lippert), Coletta (Mrs. Frank Ryan), Hilda K. (Mrs. Lester Schuster), Marcella M. (Mrs. Herman J. Lott) and Clarence (Lucille Biwer). Ignatz Summer died October 24, 1905, in Dubuque. Mrs. Ignatz (Elizabeth Holscher) Summer died January 28, 1932. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.] ⁴

(Stephen) Anton, born March 13, 1834. Died September 14, 1889, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- ordained a Catholic priest, November 4, 1861, Dubuque, Iowa.

[Rev. Anton Kortenkamp studied for the priesthood at the U. of Münster. He immigrated in 1861. After ordination, he served for three months as a priest for St. Mary's Parish, Dubuque, Iowa, and then as pastor for St. Francis Xavier Parish, Dyersville, Iowa, for 27 years until his death.]

Caspar Heinrich, born September 2, 1836. Died in infancy.

(Caspar) Heinrich/Henry, born July 7, 1839. Died December 14, 1926, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Josephine Schermer, April 17, 1866, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

- children: Dorothea (Mrs. Henry Heiring), Anton (Catherine Stoeckl), Henry, Jr. (Catherine Barrington), Simon (Catherine Stoeckl), Gertrude (Mrs. John Jaeger), Anna (Mrs. John Holscher), Josephine (Mrs. Adolf Stoeckl), Joseph (Clara Meyer), and August (died in infancy).

[Henry Kortenkamp learned the trade of brickmaker, and worked as a brick burner in Münster, Germany. He also served 3½ years (1861-1864) in the Prussian Army as a drummer, receiving medals for battles in the Danish-Prussian War of 1864. He immigrated September 27? (October 6?), 1865, and was a farmer at Dyersville, Iowa.]

[Mrs. Heinrich/Henry (Josephine Schermer) Kortenkamp was born October 26, 1848, Charleston, South Carolina; daughter of Simon and Dorothea (Empting-Grawe) Schermer. She died July 1, 1888; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.]

Herman (Anton), born August 9, 1842. Died February 14, 1912 ["age 70"], at Petersburg, Iowa. Burial in St. Francis Xavier.

- single.

[Herman Kortenkamp immigrated 1872 with his brother Ignatz. They left from the port of Bremen on the clipper ship Nemesis, and arrived at Castle Garden, port of New York, on July 12, 1872. He declared for citizenship on August 10, 1891, Dubuque County. He was considered somewhat retarded, and worked as a farmhand and gardener, and as a painter for Ignatz Summer.]

(Franz Joseph) Ignatz, born July 8, 1845. Died

- single(?).

[Ignatz Kortenkamp immigrated 1872 with his brother Herman (see above). He did not like living in Dyersville. In the 1876 Chicago City Directory he is listed as a "florist" living as a "boarder" at 328 Cottage Grove Ave (now 11328 S. Cottage Grove Ave). He is not listed in the 1875 or 1880 Directory. He is thought to have disappeared about 1876 in New York City(?).

(Caspar) Heinrich/Henry Kortenkamp, son of Johann Heinrich and Elisabeth [Strothoff] Kortenkamp, grew up on a farm -- Bauerschaft Mecklenbeck Nr. 2 -- on the east side of the Aa River about 1 mile southwest of Münster on the river side of what is now a street called "Bismarckallee" (approximately: latitude 51.95211985094112, longitude 7.6087550818920135). He worked in a brickyard as a brickburner. According to his daughter, Josephine, he told her that his name is stamped on bricks used to build a "cathedral on the Rhine." He also told her that he and his brother Ignatz placed fish traps made from willow branches in a river by Münster, getting up at 4 a.m. to empty their traps and sell the fish in the morning market before going to their other work. ⁵

In May 2009 I traveled to Europe with my oldest son David. We rented a car and spent three weeks visiting ancestral hometowns and seeing the sites. We visited Münster, and after 40 years I met Elisabeth. Her husband, Ranier Ditté, did some historical map research with Karlheinz Pötter, town historian for Mecklenbeck. They were able to find the location of the Kortenkamp ancestral farm cottage -- Bauerschaft Mecklenbeck Nr. 2 -- where Henry Kortenkamp's father, Johann Heinrich, died October 17, 1856, and his mother, Elisabeth [Strothoff], died less than two months later on December 6, 1856, in her "52nd year." Burial for both was in St. Lambert Cemetery, Münster.

In 1848, Henry Kortenkamp's older brother, Anton, at the age of 14, entered the Gymnasium at Münster for study of the classics. He graduated on August 19, 1858. Anton then entered the Academy/University in Münster on October 20 to study philosophy and theology in order to become a priest.⁶ With both of their parents deceased, it was Henry's earnings in the brickyard and fish market that helped pay for Anton's studies. In 1861⁷ Anton came to America and was ordained by Bishop Clement Smyth in Dubuque, Iowa, November 4, 1861.

After three months as Assistant Pastor at St. Mary's Parish (the "German Church"), Dubuque, Rev. Kortenkamp was assigned as first pastor of the newly formed St. Francis Xavier Parish, Dyersville, Iowa, on February 4, 1862. The first mass he celebrated in St. Francis Xavier Church was attended by twenty families. Eight years later the parish had grown to two hundred and forty families. Rev. Kortenkamp lived in the homes of his parishioners for the first year and a half, and conducted catechism classes in their homes. One of these homes was that of Dorothea & Thomas Kesch. Then a frame rectory was built four blocks southwest of the church. The rectory was on four acres (known for many years as "The Priest's Pasture") where the first three pastors kept their horses and carriages, a cow or two, a few chickens, and had a small garden.

Rev. Kortenkamp is described as "a man of powerful physique ... soft-spoken, reserved and tactful." His first duties as a priest were to furnish the new brick church whose floors and walls were completely bare. He also started a parochial school in a rented building in the fall of 1863. It was then that Rev. Kortenkamp hired Raphael Burkle as a teacher. In 1865 a frame one-room schoolhouse was built. In 1873 Rev. Kortenkamp erected a brick schoolhouse. This schoolhouse was expanded many times, and in 1920 a west wing was added and named "Kortenkamp Hall". This schoolhouse and "Kortenkamp Hall" were demolished in 2008.

In addition to being pastor at St. Francis Xavier, Dyersville, Rev. Kortenkamp also attended to missions near Dyersville -- at Worthington, Delhi and Luxemburg. In 1868 he organized the Worthington Catholics into a parish, served as pastor, and began the building of a church -- St. Paul's. When the church was finally completed about 1871, Rev. Kortenkamp read Mass at Worthington one Sunday of every month, winter and summer, until 1875 when St. Paul's received its first resident pastor. He was often taken to Worthington by Gerhard Tegeler who had a good team of road horses. Rev. Kortenkamp also established the church at Luxemburg.

Rev. Kortenkamp often drove many miles visiting sick parisheners. One spring he was called to Buffalo Creek about 20 miles SW of Dyersville, and almost drowned attempting to cross a swollen stream. The water was so intensely cold, that as a result he developed a severe rheumatic disease. During the following years his rheumatism became severe. In 1885 he began to suffer from "dropsy" (edema, i.e., fluid retention, often due to kidney or heart disease). For two years previous to his death, Rev. Kortenkamp was confined to his room, sitting in a chair day and night.

By 1886 the Dyersville parish had outgrown the old church -- there were 260 persons confirmed that year. Despite his failing health, Rev. Kortenkamp began formulating plans to build a larger church. He patterned this new church after the Cologne Cathedral in Germany.

The erection of the present St. Francis Xavier church, outside his remarkable work for souls, was the chef d'oeuvre of Father Kortenkamp's life. Due to his many missionary activities and his physical labors his health had begun to fail quite seriously, and that is what makes it a matter of profound astonishment to the people of today that this ailing priest should dare such an ambitious project as the erection in a rural community of such a huge and imposing edifice as the St. Francis Xabvier church.

-- "The Reverend Anton Kortenkamp, First Pastor" [The Centennial Story of the Parish of St. Francis Xavier Basilica, Dyersville, Iowa, 1859-1959]

Rev. Kortenkamp and my great-grandfather Henry were born. According to an 1828 map, behind the cottage was the Aa River (where my great-grandfather caught fish?), and across the road was a brickyard (where he made bricks?). The cottage is long gone, but the location is now in Aa Lake Park, Münster, just off of Bismarckallee. Elisabeth Ditté, her husband Ranier, and son Christian, took David and me on a walking tour of Münster visiting the churches and places where my Kortenkamp ancestors were born, baptized, married, worked, and were buried, and where Rev. Kortenkamp studied for the priesthood -- we were walking in the footsteps of my ancestors, a 40-year-old dream come true! Incidentally, Aa Lake Park was picked as "Europe's Best Park 2009".

⁷ "Anton Kartenkamp" is listed in Supplemental Index to Passenger Lists of Vessels Arriving at Atlantic and Gulf Ports (excluding New York), 1820-1874. He may have arrived at Baltimore.

At this time, Rev. Kortenkamp's illness was so severe that he requested and was assigned an assistant priest. In the autumn of 1887, Rev. Joseph Brinkmann took over the duties of the parish, including supervision of church construction. The stone foundation for the new church was begun in September, 1887; and completed in June 1888. Rev. Kortenkamp's brother, Henry, used his expertise at brickmaking and selected the brick for the church.

The new St. Francis Xavier Church was completed in 1889 and dedicated December 3, 1889. Sadly, Rev. Kortenkamp did not live to see this dedication. He had died that autumn on September 14. In fact, the last service to be held in the old church was the funeral of Rev. Kortenkamp. Burial was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

In 1950, St. Francis Xavier pastor Rev. Msgr. Hoffman wanted to turn the parish school into a public school. The Dyersville public school only had a "carload or two" of students. There would be many financial advantages to becoming a public school. In early February 1950, the parishioners voted "Yes". But, Dubuque Archbishop Binz was "mad as the dickens" about what the Rev. Msgr. Hoffman was doing. Archbishop Binz had many powerful contacts in the Vatican, and proposed a compromise. If the Rev. Msgr. Hoffman would drop the idea of making the catholic school public, the Vatican would make the church a basilica. In 1956, Pope Pius XII proclaimed St. Francis Xavier Church a Basilica (among only nine other Basilicas in the USA at that time, and it is still the only Basilica in a rural area).⁸

When Rev. Kortenkamp finished his studies for the priesthood in Germany and went to America, Henry left his job in the brickyard. On November 9, 1861, he joined the Prussian Army and became a drummer in the 9th Company, 5th Westphalian Infantry, Regiment #53. He served during the Danish-Prussian War of 1864 (also called the "Schleswig-Holstein War of Succession", or the "Second War of Schleswig"). For his service in this war he received three medals – a campaign medal for combatants in the battles of Wielhoi, Düppel, Alsen, Friedericia, and Rackebuell; the Düppel Cross for "brave participation in the Battle of Düppel, April 18, 1864" (accompanying certificate signed by Col. Von Treikov, Regiment Commander); and the Alsen Cross "for brave participation in the Battle of Alsen, June 29, 1864" (accompanying certificate signed by General Hermarth Von Bittenfeld).

The Battle of Düppel ("Dybbøl" in Danish) involved the heaviest artillery bombardment in history to that time – 126 guns and mortars fired thousands of shells at the Danish positions for weeks. At 4 am, April 18, the final bombardment began. In 6 hours 8,000 shells fell on the Danish positions. At 10 am the Prussian soldiers left their trenches and to the sound of the York melody attacked the Danes (37,000 well equipped Prussians against 11,000 tired Danes). By 11:30 am the surviving Danes had retreated to the island of Alsen.⁹

The battle of Alsen was one of the last battles of the war. Most of the Danish Army had retreated to a fortress on the island of Alsen off the east coast of Denmark in the Baltic Sea. The following is a summary translation from Spamer's Illustrierte Weltgeschichte (Spamer's Illustrated World History), 3rd Ed., 1898:

*From the high fortifications on the island the Danish soldiers could fire down on any boats trying to reach the island. The night of June 28/29, 1864 was dark and foggy. At 2:00 a.m. in the morning, 2,500 Pussian infantrymen, with oars wrapped in cloth so they would be soundless, started rowing silently across the 800 yard channel to the island. Just halfway across, in the earliest gray of the morning, the Danish sentries spotted the boats and immediately opened fire. The Prussian soldiers began to give war cries and row faster. Then the Danish cannons began their thunderous bombardment of the defenseless boats. The Prussian cannons on shore answered, their shells flying high over the boats into the Danish fortification. With bullets and cannon shells hitting the water around them, the Prussian boats finally reached the shore, stormed the fortifications and captured the island.*¹⁰

Henry had his picture taken in his military uniform with his drum and helmet, with a couple army friends. In Henry's photo album are several other pictures of Prussian soldiers. One picture has the name and address of the photo studio on the back – "F. Brandt, Photographisches Atelier, Flensburg". Flensburg is the northern-most German town on the Danish border. Friederich Brandt took many pictures of the Danish-Prussian War.

Henry was discharged from the army on December 18, 1864. In his discharge paper he is described as 6' 2" tall, of slender build, and blond. He was very proud of his military service and his combat medals, and he wore them in later years for several portraits. The medals are attached to a framed life-size portrait of Henry in his military uniform (this portrait is in the possession of Daniel Kortenkamp).

¹⁰ I am grateful to Dr. Wolfgang Horn, Stevens Point, WI, for translating the description of the Battle of Alsen.

The following year Henry left for America. He arrived September 27, 1865.¹¹ He probably took the train from New York City to Dubuque and Dyersville. The first train began operation from Dubuque to Dyersville (the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad) on May 11, 1857. Henry supposedly worked for awhile in a brickyard in Dubuque, but soon went to Dyersville to join his brother, Rev. Anton Kortenkamp. Rev. Kortenkamp actually financed Henry's immigration to America, and also helped Henry purchase a farm 2 miles NE of Dyersville, on the south bank of Hewitt Creek, January 11, 1866. [See Dyersville Area Map in the Appendix] Rev. Kortenkamp did this as repayment for the years Henry worked in the brickyard paying his brother's expenses while studying for the priesthood.

Following Henry to America was his older sister, Gertrude. According to Josephine [Kortenkamp] Stoeckl, Gertrude worked in Germany as a cook for Prince Solms "at Frankfurt" (the Solms nobility had a castle at Solms & Braunfels, about 25 miles NNW of Frankfurt). Gertrude left Germany from the port of Bremen on the clipper steamship Hermann (of 1865), and arrived at Castle Garden, port of New York, on April 30, 1866.¹² She married Ignatz Summer in 1869 in Dyersville.

Ignatz Summer was born in Weiler, Voralberg, Tyrol, Austria, on December 4 (10?), 1845. He was the 8th child in a family of 15. His father was a wealthy merchant and owner of a hotel and large estate. Ignatz studied painting in Switzerland until immigrating to the U.S., landing on April 20, 1867.¹³ He worked as a painter three years in Dubuque before moving to Dyersville where he established a painting and decorating business in 1867. In 1880 he founded the Eagle Point Plow and Wagon Works on the east side of Dyersville known as Eagle Point. He employed 20 or more men. They manufactured wagons, carriages, and farming implements. Mr. Summer had the sole right to manufacture the celebrated Hans Iver Lund Harrows in the counties on the railroad line between Dyersville and Le Mars. Gertrude died in her 52nd year in Dyersville on June 19, 1884. They had no children.

Ignatz Summer remarried, to Elizabeth Holscher on January 7, 1885, daughter of Henry & Catherine [Schultz] Holscher. Ignatz & Elizabeth had several children – Henry (Millie Brockman), Caroline (Mrs. Al Gaynor), Ida (Mrs. Charles Lippert), Coletta (Mrs. Frank Ryan), Hilda (Mrs. Lester Schuster), Marcella (Mrs. Herman J. Lott), and Clarence (Lucille Biwer). In 1889, Ignatz added a large grocery store to his business. He served as an Alderman in Dyersville. He operated his businesses until about 5 years before his death in 1905. The factory was sold and replaced by residences.

Ignatz died October 31, 1905, at Mercy Hospital, Dubuque. According to his obituary he was survived by brothers John and Alois in Colorado, Michael, George and Henry in Germany, and Jacob in New Vienna, Iowa, and by sisters Barbara, Celistine Mary and Josephine (Sr. Mary Martha) in Germany. Mrs. Ignatz [Elizabeth Holscher] Summer died January 28, 1932. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

In 1872, Henry Kortenkamp's younger brothers, Herman and Ignatz, left Germany from the port of Bremen on the clipper steamship Nemesis, and arrived at Castle Garden, port of New York, on July 12, 1872. Herman declared for citizenship on August 10, 1891, Dubuque County. He never married, and was considered somewhat retarded. He worked as a farmhand and gardener, and as a painter for Mr. Summer in his Dyersville wagon shop. Herman died at Bear Grove, Petersburg, Delaware County, Iowa, on February 14, 1912. Burial was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

According to a story handed down in the family (told by Raymond and Anton Kortenkamp) Henry's youngest brother, Ignatz, stayed for a short time in Dyersville, but didn't like it. He went back to New York City intending to eventually return to Germany, and worked for a hotel as a roof gardener to make enough money for the return trip to Germany. One day, Ignatz's brother Henry received a package in the mail from Ignatz's roommate. It contained Ignatz's belongings with a note saying he had left the hotel one day and never returned. Some investigation by Henry through correspondence with the hotel concluded that perhaps Ignatz was murdered and his body sold to a medical school.¹⁴

¹¹ Henry Kortenkamp's "Declaration of Intent", February 7, 1870, Dubuque County, says he arrived October 6, 1865.

¹³ Several of Ignatz Summer's brothers immigrated. Jacob Summer came in 1871 and married Sophia Borchet 1873, New Vienna. She died 1898 and he married Anna Hoeger 1905. They had six children – Ben, Joseph, Mrs. Will Kirschbaum, Mrs. J.T. Boeckenedt, Sister Alphonsus and Mrs. Ernie Rundle. Jacob was a painter, and noted for his fine singing voice. Alois Summer came in 1863, and his brother John in 1867. They later went on to Georgetown, Colorado, and founded a brewery -- "Johan Summer and Brother Brewer." [this info from: Pichler, Meinrad. (1993). Auswanderer von Vorarlberg in die USA 1800-1938.] A biography of Ignatz Summer [Portrait and biographical record of Dubuque, Jones and Clayton Counties, Iowa (1894)] contained info on brothers Leonard (a brewer in Fair Play, Colorado), Joseph (in the mining business in Fair Play), John (owned a large farm at Steamboat Spings 200 miles west of Denver), Louis (in the liquor business in Georgetown, Colorado). Ignatz visited these brothers in Colorado in 1892. A brother George remained in Switzerland and was a merchant and hotel keeper.

Henry Kortenkamp married Josephine Schermer, daughter of Simon and Dorothea [Empting-Grawe] Schermer, on April 17, 1866, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville. [Note: The name "Grawe" was pronounced "grave."]

Schermer Genealogy ¹⁵

Josephine Schermer was born in Charleston, Charleston County, South Carolina, on October 26, 1848, to Simon and Dorothea [Empting-Grawe] Schermer.

Josephine's father, Simon Schermer, was born August 2, 1804, at Wormerveer, North Holland, The Netherlands. He was the only son of Pieter Jan and Maria [Koorn Groen] Schermer. His mother had been married before to [unknown]; and they had one son – Klaas Groen.

The Schermer family has been traced back in Holland to an Adriaan Jansz Schermer, born about 1640. Other surnames in this ancestry are Appel, Elberts, Groen, Grootewal, Grootsant, Kistemaker, Koorn, van der Kruijse/Cruysey, Pieters, Prins, van Scherpenhof, Simons, and Spoelder. [See Simon Schermer Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]. The given name Simon appears already as the name of Adriaan Schermer's grandson (1695-1770) who worked for the Simon Schermer & Zoonen firm in Holland. This firm was founded by Simon's father, Jan Adriaansz Schermer, on May 22, 1703. The firm consisted of merchants, ship owners, and owners of oil mills and snuff mills. This Simon's grandson, also named Simon (1747-1810), served as a member of the Dutch Parliament from 1796 to 1801. It was his grandson, Simon, who immigrated to Charleston about 1835. ¹⁶

It is said that Simon was educated at a Jesuit College in Lier (French: Lierre), Antwerp Province, Belgium (then the southern part of The Austrian Netherlands), the same college his father had attended (U. of Leuven, Belgium?). After college he was a member for five years of the Simon Schermer & Zoonen firm. However, the firm was ruined and lost in 1835 by the irresponsibility of Simon's half-brother, Klaas Groen.

About 1836, Simon immigrated to Charleston (perhaps on the Barkship Sophia Cecelia). He worked with a railroad company as a supervisor of trains, going inland with passengers and merchandise, and doing some trading with the Indians. The first railroad in Charleston began scheduled runs on Christmas Day in 1830. The entire 176-mile route inland to Hamburg, South Carolina, was completed by October, 1833, to become the longest continuous railroad in the world at that time. Later, Simon worked in an office for a Mr. King.

Simon eventually started a cotton-and-cheese import-export business with his cousin Theodorus Schermer (1805-1871), a member of the Haantjes & Schermer firm, founded 1770. This was a firm of cheese merchants and ship owners. Simon exported cotton to Holland, and imported cheese to Charleston.

Simon Schermer (1804-1854), who immigrated to the United States about 1836, filed notice for naturalization to become a U.S. citizen on December 28, 1844, in Charleston. On December 30, 1845, he married Anna Dorothea [Empting] Grawe at St. Patrick Catholic Church, Charleston, South Carolina. She was the daughter of Ferdinand and Anna Elizabeth [Wals] Empting. She was a widow.

Empting Genealogy ¹⁷

Anna Dorothea Empting was baptized in St. Cornelius & Cyprianus Church, St. Mary Magdalena Vicary, on September 6, 1812, at Westbevern, Westphalia, Prussia [now part of Telgte, Kr. Warendorf, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. Her parents were Anna Elizabeth [Wals] and Ferdinand Empting. [See Dorothea (Empting) Grawe Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]

¹⁵ Most of the information about the Schermer ancestry in Holland was obtained from Simon Schermer (1901-1988) who lived in Amsterdam (#5 Memlingstraat), The Netherlands. Daniel Kortenkamp corresponded with him 1969-1972 after finding his name and address in a copy of Who's Who in the Netherlands. Simon was listed as Consul to Haiti, with genealogy as his hobby. He had done genealogical research on his ancestors for over 50 years, and was a distant cousin to the American Schermers. Some information was obtained from William Schermer during 1995-1996, a grandson of Josephine Schermer's brother, Simon. It was William who first made contact with Simon in Amsterdam in the early 1960s. Simon then traveled to the USA to do research on the American Schermers. William, an architect in Mexico City, visited Simon in Amsterdam many times. Also, Simon would vacation with William in Mexico. Some information came from William Schermer's sister, Delores Schermer, living in Fort Dodge, Iowa, who also visited Simon in Amsterdam. Simon Schermer intended to leave his "Schermer Archives" to his nephews (Joop & Dirk Doorman, or his niece Dr. (Anna Justine Marie?) Doorman, MD, children of Rear Admiral Karel Doorman (1889-1942). According to William (1995), the "Schermer Archives" are in the possession of a son of either Joop or Dirk. Simon's 1988 funeral notice lists "K.W.F.M. Doorman, Stentorstraat 96, 1035 XJ Amsterdam" for correspondence.

Dorothea's father, Ferdinand Empting, was born about 1772 (place unknown, but he was not born in Westbevern or Münster). On October 22, 1803, he married Elisabeth Wals at St. Servatii Church, Münster, Westphalia, Prussia [now Münster, Kr. Münster, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. It is not known where or when Elisabeth Wals was born, but she was not born in Westbevern.¹⁸

Ferdinand Empting worked as a "Förster" (forester) and "Jäger" (hunter) at Westbevern, probably in the service of the Beverförde family. Foresters and hunters were really gamekeepers in charge of animal inventories for cities and for nobility. These gamekeepers lived in very nice hunting lodges or forestry houses within the forests, or at manorial estates, or on the outskirts of cities. They were freemen, and had the same privileges and social standings as the local priest, teacher, doctor, manorial administrator or mayor. Gamekeepers served as guides for noble hunting parties, and in most cases their lodges or forestry houses functioned as inns for these hunting parties.

While living in Westbevern, Ferdinand and Elisabeth [Wals] Empting had six children:

Maria Anna Bernardina, born August 27, 1804. Died

[Christina Josephine Empting emigrated from Coere, St. Mauritz Parish, Münster, to the United States in 1847 (she was listed as a "Dienstmagd", i.e., maid). Josephine Empting was a sponsor for the baptisms of the children of Dorothea and her husband Simon Schermer.]

In 1812, Ferdinand Empting and his family were living in #9 "Dorf" (cottage) in Westbevern. Also living with them was Elisabeth Reckmann, age 70. Her relationship to the family is not known.

When or where Ferdinand and Elisabeth [Wals] Empting died is not known.

Dorothea Empting, daughter of Ferdinand and Elisabeth [Wals] Empting, married Heinrich/Henry Grawe (place/date unknown). Henry Grawe (pronounced "grave", and may have been spelled

“Grave/Greve/Grefe/Graeve/Graewe”) was born about 1808 near Paderborn, Westphalia [now Paderborn, Kr. Paderborn, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany]. He immigrated to Charleston, South Carolina, about 1836.¹⁹ Dorothea also immigrated to Charleston; but it is not known if they were married before or after they immigrated. Henry Grawe’s half-brother Bernard Hermann Grawe (born near Paderborn, December 26, 1821) also immigrated to Charleston, about 1844. About 1852/53 he married Anna (maiden name unknown), born about 1832, a young lady who converted to Catholicism at the time of her marriage. [Note: There is a May 17, 1850, baptismal record for Herman Burlage (Bowlage?) aged one week; parents Herman Burlage (Bowlage?) and Catherine Grawe; sponsors Gerald Plosporl(?) and Ursula? Farbach, St. Patrick Catholic Church, Charleston, SC.]

Dorothea's husband Henry Grawe and their only child, a daughter named Adeline, died the same night in October 1843 at Charleston Neck [now part of Charleston] from yellow fever. Henry died October 2. His death record says he was age 35, and had lived in Charleston for 7 years. Adeline died October 3. Her death record says she was 4 years and 3 months old. The place of their funeral and burial is not known.

Dorothea is thought to have gone back to Germany, then decided she liked Charleston better, so returned. Here, she married Simon Schermer on December 30, 1845, St. Patrick Church. They lived in Charleston Neck at #53 on the east side of Saint Philip Street in a house purchased for $850 on January 7, 1848.²⁰

While living in Charleston Dorothea and Simon had two children:

Josephine, born April 26, 1849. Died July 1, 1888, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

- married Henry Kortenkamp, April 17, 1866, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

- children: Dorothea (Mrs. Henry Heiring), Anton (Catherine Stoeckl), Henry, Jr. (Catherine Barrington), Simon (Catherine Stoeckl), Gertrude (Mrs. John Jaeger), Anna (Mrs. John Holscher), Josephine (Mrs. Adolf Stoeckl), Joseph (Clara Meyer), and August (died in infancy).

[Henry Kortenkamp was born July 7, 1839, Münster, Westphalia, Germany, son of Johann and Elisabeth (Strothoff) Kortenkamp. He immigrated September 27 (October 6?), 1865. He worked as a brick burner in Germany, and also served as a drummer in the Prussian Army. At Dyersville, he was a farmer. He died December 14, 1926; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.]

[Mrs. Simon (Mary Wacha) Schermer was born _____, 1857, _____, daughter of Frank and Anna [Kesch] Wacha. Anna Kesch was the sister of Thomas Kesch. Mary Wacha died May 8, 1901, within one hour after seeing her 12-year old son, John, fall and break his neck when the horses pulling the hay wagon he was driving became frightened and bolted; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.]

[There is a story, told to me by my father, Anton Kortenkamp – Josephine and her brother Simon were 8 and 9 years old when their mother Dorothea married Thomas Kesch in 1858. He was a cruel stepfather. One day he asked young Simon to pick all the corn in a small field. When Thomas came home at the end of the day he went to inspect the field and found some ears of corn Simon had missed. Thomas then gave Simon a severe beating. Because of such treatment Simon ran away from home. His mother, Dorothea, did not hear from him for several years. Worried about his welfare, she decided to make a novena for his return. On the ninth day of the novena he showed up back home. He had been a stagecoach driver between Sioux City and Waterloo, Iowa, with no intention of returning home. One day he suddenly got the urge to go home.

[There is also a story told by Mrs. Adolf [Josephine Kortenkamp] Stoeckl – that Simon and another boy were kidnapped by Indians. The Indians took them in a covered wagon to Montan. When the other boy tried to escape the Indians killed him. They kept Simon for 7 years before he escaped by stealing one of the horses. He then followed the Missouri River to Sioux City, Iowa. There he hitched a ride on a stagecoach carrying mail to Waterloo. From there he took the train to Dyersville. It was at night when he arrived home, so he slept in the woodshed until morning so as not to wake his mother and stepfather. When he saw his parents were up he went to the door, but his mother wouldn’t believe he was Simon (he had long hair and a beard). So Simon said to his mother, “See that cane up there on the shelf, I carved that.” Then his mother knew he was truly Simon. Josephine Schermer, his daughter, denied this story.

In 1878, Simon bought a farm with Dorothy and Thomas Kesch at the west edge of Dyersville, in Delaware County. When Thomas Kesch died in 1885, Josephine [Schermer] Kortenkamp became an heir to the farm. The farm was sold to Bernard Tegeler in 1907. After Simon's wife Mary died, he had his sister-in-law, Mary, come to care for his 12 children. He eventually married her, sold the farm, moved the kids to a house in Dyersville, and moved to Hayes, Buckeye Township, Ellis County, Kansas, homesteading and hoping to strike oil. He left his daughter Josephine to care for 7 of his children, refusing to allow her to get married. He was injured when a horse he was riding fell on him. He returned to Dyersville in 1927, where his daughter Josephine cared for him until his death.]

Anna was a teacher in the one-room St. Francis Country School east of Dyersville during the 1890s and early 1900s. She later married George Beckmann.

Simon Schermer and his family are listed in the 1850 Federal Census for Charleston, Charleston County, under "Simon Carmer".

Dorothea's second husband Simon Schermer died of yellow fever in Charleston, September 17, 1853. Burial was in St. Lawrence Cemetery, Charleston. On his gravestone is engraved: "GLORIA IN EXCELSIS DEO -- SACRED -- To the Memory of -- SIMON SCHERMER -- who died on the 15th September 1853 -- Aged 49 years 1 month 14 days -- Son of Peter & Margaret Schermer -- of Wormer Seer [sic] Noord Holland -- and resident of Charleston 17 years -- Mr Schermer was a man of the -- strictest integrity and great -- moral worth -- an affectionate Husband -- and tender Father -- Ille Occidit Flebilis sed -- nullo Flebilior quam mihi -- Dora -- This Stone is erected -- by his beloved Wife -- Dora Schermer". The Latin phrase is a paraphrase from the Roman poet Horace's (23 BCE) Book 1, Ode XXIV, where Horace speaks of the death of Quintillian -- "Many good men wept when he died, but none wept more than I."

Simon Schermer was quite wealthy when he died. Quoting from Rev. Arthur Halback's Dyersville: Its history and its people (1939), p. 374:

*After her husband's death, Mrs. Schermer found it necessary to make a trip to Holland to settle his estate. [There she met with Jan Schermer, a notary public] On her return journey to Charleston she noticed a young girl, Mary Schaupmann, was lonesome. Mrs. Schermer was kind to her and told her not to worry about the future, that she had a fine home and sufficient means to take care of her. Thus Mary became a member of the Mrs. Schermer family for some years. When Mrs. Schermer moved to Iowa and settled at New Vienna in 1857, Mary came with her and helped in the household duties caring for her two children, Simon Jr. and Josephine, besides providing room and board for Father Orth. Here Miss Schaupmann was living at the time of her marriage to Joe Feldmann.*²¹

In 1855 (according to a letter from Simon Schermer, Amsterdam) Dorothea traveled alone to Holland to settle her late husband's estate. However, Dorothy and her two children are listed on the passenger list of the Hansa, which sailed from the German port of Bremen on September 22, 1854, and arrived at New York City on October 9, 1854.

After a couple more years in Charleston, Dorothea and her children moved to New Vienna, Dubuque County, Iowa. Her first husband's half-brother, Bernard Herman Grawe, also moved with his wife and six-month-old daughter Dora from Charleston to Delaware County, Iowa, about 1853/54. The earlier deaths of Dorothea's two husbands and daughter had persuaded them all to leave "the unbearable heat and dangerous fevers" of Charleston.²²

Dorothea married for a third time -- to Thomas Kesch on May 4, 1858, in St. Boniface Church, New Vienna. He had been born in Bohemia (i.e., Czechoslovakia), or Austria, on December 13, 1822. He was a master carpenter and

²² Bernard Herman Grawe and his wife Anna had 5 children -- Dora (Mrs. Herman Wilgenbush), Bernard Herman, Jr. (Agnes Kraemer), Maria Anna (died in infancy?), Anna Catherine (Mrs. John Herman Eilers, of Geddes, SD), Francis Nicholas/"Nick" (Anna Jasper), and an infant who died at birth (and, there is a James H. Grawe, age 5, died September 4, 1856, buried in St. Lawrence Cemetery, Charleston, SC). Mrs. Grawe died in childbirth, February 19, 1866, at the age of 34 years and 6 months, at Dyersville; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery. On February 19, 1867, in St. Boniface Church, New Vienna, Bernard Herman Grawe married Catherine Erdmann (born September 28, 1842, Münster, Westphalia [Germany]). She had immigrated to New Vienna with her parents, Mr. & Mrs. William Erdmann, and 3 brothers in 1854. Herman and Catherine had ten children -- John William (died age 1), Anna Mary Catherine (Mrs. Bernard Eilers), Mary (Mrs. Frank Ritz), Mary Elizabeth (Mrs. Henry Lueck), Catherine Gertrude (Mrs. Joseph Schute), Catherine Helena/"Lena" (died age 3 mos.), Casper Henry (Caroline Kruse), Catherina Helena/"Lena" (died age 1), Anna Margaret (Mrs. George Deyen), and Caroline Frances (Mrs. Jacob/"Jake" Huberty). Bernard Herman Grawe died June 8, 1900. Catherine lived with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Schute, until she died August 31, 1923. [Information about Bernard Herman Grawe and his family is from Rev. Arthur A. Halbach, (1939) Dyersville: Its history and its people; the 1860 Federal Census, Delaware County (where his name is spelled "Krave"); and (2007) Stefanie-Candace Jenaman, Dubuque. house painter. They moved to Dyersville in 1859. That year Dorothea loaned the St. Francis Xavier Parish $1,000 in gold to complete construction of the first brick church in Dyersville; and demanded that the loan be repaid in gold. When Rev. Kortenkamp came to Dyersville in 1862, he stayed with Dorothea and Thomas Kesch until a rectory could be built. He also conducted catechism classes in their home until a school could be built in 1863. Thomas Kesch died on September 9, 1885. Dorothea died on June 16, 1897, at the age of 84. She had outlived all three of her husbands. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Josephine Schermer, daughter of Simon and Dorothea [Empting-Grawe] Schermer, married Henry Kortenkamp on April 17, 1866, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville, Iowa. Before marrying Henry Kortenkamp, Josephine had worked as a hat-trimmer. However, Henry had purchased a farm shortly before marrying Josephine. She now became a farmer's wife. Their farm was just 2 miles NE of Dyersville on the south side of Hewitt Creek. [See Dyersville Area Map in the Appendix]. The farm is now part of the Dyersville Golf Course.

Henry and Josephine [Schermer] Kortenkamp had nine children:

Anna Dorothea, born March 23, 1867. Died February 8, 1887, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

- married Henry Heiring, May 4, 1886, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

[There is a story told by my father, Anton Kortenkamp, that Simon and his brother Henry hopped a freight train to run away from home as teenagers. Simon sold pots & pans door-to-door near Iowa City. They both eventually returned home.]

[Simon told of going to school in Dyersville with his siblings. They would eat with their uncle Father Kortenkamp. One hot day, Father Kortenkamp asked them why they weren't barefooted. They answered that their teacher, a nun, would not allow it. Father told them to go barefooted, and if Sister objected, he would take care of it. So, one day they came to school barefooted; and the teacher took them immediately to Father for disciplining. Father told Sister that she should let them go barefooted because it was so hot. The kids had the last laugh.]

At one time it was thought to be due to excess milk being directed to the legs.]

Henry Kortenkamp continued farming until selling the farm in 1900 and retiring. He spent his last years with his daughter, Anna (Mrs. John Holscher), at 505 West Victoria (now 2nd Ave), Dyersville. He died there December 14, 1926. Burial for both Henry and Josephine was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Across Hewitt Creek from the Kortenkamp Farm was the Adam Stoeckl farm. On April 18, 1899, Simon Kortenkamp married Catherine Stoeckl, daughter of Adam and Magdalena [Braun] Stoeckl, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville. Simon was the only descendant of Henry and Josephine [Schermer] Kortenkamp to marry and have children who carried on the Kortenkamp name.

Stoeckl Genealogy

Catherine Stoeckl was born at Dyersville on June 6, 1880. Her parents were Adam and Magdalena [Braun] Stoeckl, who farmed one mile NE of Dyersville, along the north side of Hewitt Creek -- just across the creek from the Henry Kortenkamp farm. [See Dyersville Area Map in the Appendix]

The parents of Catherine Stoeckl, Adam and Magdalena [Braun] Stoeckl, were both born in Bavaria, and came to America with their parents as children.

Braun Genealogy

Catherine Stoeckl's mother, Magdalena [Braun], was born December 27, 1841, at Teunz, Oberpfalz, Bavaria [now Teunz, Kr. Schwardendorf, Bavaria, Germany].²⁴ Magdalena's father was Adam Braun, who was born 1810(?) Antelsdorf (about 2k west of Oberveichtach, Bavaria). His parents were Georg and Barbara [Achatz] Braun. Magdalena's mother (Maria) Margaretha [Zwack] was born at Teunz, April 7, 1810. She had a brother, Sebastian, born January 20, 1805. Their parents were Andreas and Barbara [Rothmayer/Rothmahr] Zwack, living at Teunz #30.²⁵ [See Magdalena Braun Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]

On September 10, 1845, Adam Braun, an unmarried farmer's son from Antelsdorf, bought the property of the Zwack family in Teunz (house number 33), and signed a marriage contract with Margaretha Zwack. The marriage contract also states that the children of Adam Braun and Margaretha Zwack, which were born before their marriage, should be legitimized. Adam Braun and Margaretha Zwack were married four days later, September 14, 1845.

Adam and Margaretha [Zwack] Braun had at least four children while living at Teunz:

Magdalena, born December 27, 1841. Died January 30, 1921, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Adam Stoeckl, Sr., October 12, 1860, in _____ Church, at _____ Michael, born February 5, 1851. Died June 11, 1916, in Boise County, Idaho. Burial in Morris Hill Cemetery, Boise, Idaho.

- married Anna Billmeyer, October 14, 1873, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville, Iowa.
 - children: Adam Wolfgang (single?), Mary Magdalena/"Lena" (Mrs. _____), Michael (_____), John George (Katherine Evans, later Mrs. Ernest Gothier), Maria (died in infancy?), Joseph (died in infancy?), Louis Henry (_____), Katherine Franziska/"Katie" (Mrs. Henry Kramer), Anna (Mrs. _____), Margaret (died in infancy?), Grace (Mrs. _____), Rose (Mrs. _____), Edward H. (_____), and Frank Jacob (_____), and 4 children unknown.

[Michael Braun farmed (near Earlville) in North Fork Twp, Delaware County, Iowa. In about 1899 he moved his family to the "Dakota Territory". He farmed near Dell Rapids, Minnehaha County, South Dakota. He and Anna had 18 children, 11 of 12 living are listed in the 1900 Federal Census for Minnehaha County, South Dakota. Michael and Anna, and some of their children later moved to Boise County, Idaho. George stayed in South Dakota; and died May 6, 1931, Moody County; burial in Dell Rapids Catholic Cemetery (later moved to Union Cemetery, Flandreau, Moody County).]²⁶

[Mrs. Michael (Anna Billmeyer) Braun was born about April 2, 1857, _____, Iowa; daughter of Michael & Catherine (_____) Billmeyer. Adam and Margaretha [Zwack] Braun, with their children Magdalena and Michael, received Bavarian government consent to emigrate in July 1856. Magdalena was 14 years old, Michael was 5. They sailed aboard the Washington from Hamburg, Germany; and arrived in New Orleans on October 30, 1856. They settled on a farm east of Dyersville in 1857.

Adam Braun died November 18, 1883, at Dyersville. Burial in _____ Cemetery. Margaret [Zwack] Braun died _____, at _____ . Burial in _____ Cemetery.

²⁴ This region of Bavaria is today called the "Bavarian Congo" by the Germans. It is considered a very remote wilderness area.

²⁵ The Catholic church at Teunz burned July 4, 1845, and all church records were destroyed. Information about the Stoeckl and Braun ancestry in Germany was obtained in 1997 from civil records by Mr. Pleßl, Archivoberinspektor, Staatsarchiv Amberg, Amberg, Bavaria, Germany. Information about the Zwack ancestry was provided by Frank Bernklow, Waterboro, Maine. He had traveled to Bavaria many times acquiring information about his Zwack ancestors from Teunz, and many other Zwack families at Teunz and in the U.S. The Bavarian Zwacks supposedly came from Hungary. Zwack Unicum (an herbal liqueur) is the national drink of Hungary.

²⁷ Info about the Billmeyer family provided (2001) by Harold Robinson, Gettysburg, PA. He collects info about many Billmeyer families.

Catherine Stoeckl's father, Adam Stoeckl, was born September 15 or 17, 1834?, at Zeinried (Teunz Parish), Oberviechtach, Oberpfalz, Bavaria [now Zeinried-Teunz, Kr. Schwarendorf, Bavaria, Germany].

Adam Stoeckl's parents were Joseph Stöckl, born 1807? at Zeinried, and Margaretha [Bauer], born 1807(?) (1805?). [See Adam Stoeckl Ancestor Tree in the Appendix] On January 27, 1834, Joseph Stöckl received house #12 in Zeinried after the death of his father, Thomas Stöckl, from the widow Katharina [maiden name unknown] and the other heirs – Johann Stöckl in Ritzlersreuth, Elisabeth Stöckl in Zeinried, Andreas Stöckl in Teunz, and Adam Stöckl in Zeinried. Perhaps these were the mother and siblings of Joseph Stöckl. There is a Johann Stoeckl, born October 18, 1794, died at Dyersville on August 10, 1863, with burial in the St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

Joseph Stöckl entered into a marriage agreement with Margaretha Bauer on the same day he inherited the house in Zeinried. She was a farmer's daughter from Fuchsberg; the name of her father was Mathias Bauer. He may have been the Mathias Bauer who lived at #19, Fuchsberg, who was married to Anna Maria Scheuer of Fuchsberg #13. They had a son, Johann Michael, born March 19, 1810, who may have been a brother to Margaretha. It can be assumed Joseph Stöckl and Margaretha Bauer were married shortly after the marriage agreement.

Joseph and Margaretha [Bauer] Stoeckl had several children while living at Zeinried:

Adam, Sr., born September 15 or 17, 1834?. Died April 9, 1916, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Magdalena Braun, October 12, 1860, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

- children: Elizabeth (died in infancy), Elizabeth (died in infancy), Anna (Mrs. George Billmeyer), Margaret (Mrs. Theodore Goerd), Jr., Adam, Jr. (Frances Belm), Joseph (died in infancy), Theresa (died in infancy), Michael (Agatha Christoph), Mary (Mrs. Anton Schindler), Wolfgang Adolf "Dolf" (Josephine Kortenkamp), Catherine (Mrs. Simon Kortenkamp), and Joseph (Caroline Meyer).

[Adam Stoeckl, Sr., farmed at Dyersville, retiring to Dyersville in 1900.]

[Mrs. Adam (Magdalena Braun) Stoeckl, Sr., was born December 7, 1841, Teunz, Oberpfalz, Bavaria, Germany; daughter of Adam and Margaretha (Zwack) Stoeckl. She emigrated with her parents in July 1856. She died January 30, 1921, burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.]

Elizabeth, born November 15, 1840? Died July, 5 1913, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

- married Bernard Holscher, February 1, 1859, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

- children: Mary Elizabeth (Mrs. _____), Bernard H. (died at age 2), Anna M. (died in infancy), Joseph (died age 24), Catherine (Mrs. _____), Elizabeth B. (Mrs. Joseph Pilmaier I), Henry (_____), Anna (Mrs. Henry Goerd), and John (Anna Kortenkamp).

[Bernard Holscher was born April 30, 1830, Telgte, Westphalia, Germany, son of _____. He served in the Prussian Army, and sailed from Bremen May 5, 1857, arrived Baltimore, June 29, and Dyersville, July 7. He and his brother Henry ran a grocery store and saloon. Henry died in February 21(23?), 1883. Bernard sold the business in 1890, and engaged in stock and grain buying until his death. He also was president of the German State Bank from 1883 until his death. Bernard and Elizabeth (Stoeckl) Holscher were quite wealthy and made many large donations for the building and remodeling of St. Francis Xavier Church and School, and established a scholarship fund at Loras College, Dubuque. Bernard Holscher died March 6, 1892/93?; burial St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.]

Barbara, born October 22, 1842. Died January 9, 1929, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Joseph, born September 25, 1845. Died December 8, 1895, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Cemetery.

- married Theresia Tierschal, September ?, 1865, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

- children: Anna (Mrs. George Haeusler), Magdalena (Mrs. John Teschler), and Catherine (Mrs. Anton Kortenkamp, later Mrs. Joseph Wessel).

[Joseph Stoeckl farmed at Dyersville on the old Stoeckl homestead.]

[Mrs. Joseph (Theresia Tierschal) Stoeckl was born November 9, 1842, Neubeiern, Germany (Neubau, Austria?); daughter of Michael and Margaret (Nachtmann) Tierschal, who immigrated to Dyersville in 1856. She died February 4, 1911, burial in _____.]

Adam Stoeckl, Sr., was about ten years old when his family, along with several other families and individuals, left the Oberpfalz area of Bavaria, about June 1845. Adam's little brother, Joseph, is said to have been born September 25, in the port city of Hamburg, Germany, while the family was waiting to board ship for America.

On about October 14, this group of families and individuals boarded the ship Charlemagne (a 3-masted, square-rigged sailing ship -- 124 feet long; 28 feet wide, and 14 feet deep at the hold). There were 175 passengers, 68 of them in the Bavarian group. Two passengers died during the voyage. The following families and individuals from the Oberpfalz area of Bavaria are listed on the New Orleans passenger manifest:²⁸

Anton Reitingger, age 37 (farmer from Tiefenbach), Barbara (34), Michel (5), and Joseph (1/2).
 Sebastian Betz, age 30 (farmer from Breitenried), Theresia [Schmidt] (32), Michel (6½), and Johann (2½).
 Adam Hildebranth, age 50 (farmer from Altenschieburg), Catherine (45), George (7½), Catharina (5½), and Anna (1½).
 Michel Stoecker, age 33 (linen weaver from Irlach), Ann [a sister to George Schindler] (30), Anna (4), and Jacob (3).
 Elisabeth Tergl, age 30 (weaver from Irlach).
 Michel Hutter age 35 (weaver from Irlach), Sabine (9) and Michel (3). [Mrs. Hutter is thought to have died during the voyage, with burial at sea.]
 Catharina Krapfl, age 44 (miller from Katzelsried), children George (23), Andreas (19), Michel (17), Anna (11), Jacob (9), and Johann (3). [Mr. Jacob Krapfl died during the voyage, with burial at sea.]
 Joseph Hurdwagon, age 40 (linen weaver from Oedmishach), Elisabeth (40), Barbara (15), Franziska (11), Cristiana (8), Anna (4), and Michel (1½).
 Andreas Stöckel, age 42 (farmer from Teunz), Margarethe (35), Barbara (12), Wolfgang (9), and Johann (5).
 Joseph Stöckel, age 38 (farmer from Zeinried), Margaretha (38), Adam (11), Elisabeth (5), Barbara (3).
 Johann Stöckel, age 51 (from Zeinried)
 George Hecht, age (farmer from Grossenschwand), and Margaretha (27).
 Athea Turnburger, age 44 (farmer from Schneeberg), Susanna (43), Johann (23), Anna (14), Wolfgang (12), Michel (9), Susanna (4), and Catharina (1½).
 Jacob Leibl, age 53 (farmer from Burchhardberg), Maria (50), Michel (29), George (21), and Margaretha (11).
 Johann Fritsch, age 28 (farmer from Burkhardtsberg), Barbara (28), Andreas (5), Thomas (3½), Catharina (1½)

The Atlantic crossing took 46 days. After arriving in New Orleans on November 29, 1845, some of these families and individuals traveled to St. Louis, probably by steamship, which would have taken about nine days (the steamship carrying the Catherine Krapfl family caught fire and all their belongings were burned). Some of these families spent the winter of 1845-46 with two other Bavarian families -- the George, Sr., & Barbara [Gebhard] Schindler family, and the Michael & Anna Barbara [Deml] Christoph family. The Schindler family had emigrated in 1842 from Irlach or Katzelsried, and lived in Buffalo, New York, until moving to St. Louis about 1844/45. The Christoph family had emigrated in 1844 from Strahlfeld, Oberpfalz, Bavaria, to St. Louis. There are parish records for some of these Bavarian immigrant families (and the family of Joseph and Anna [Miesel] Stangl/Stangel) at the St. Vincent de Paul Church in St. Louis. Records for this parish begin in February of 1844 (the cornerstone was laid March 1844).

In the spring of 1846 eight families (and a bachelor, "Mr. Urbang") traveled to Dubuque, Iowa:

Joseph & Margaretha [Bauer] Stoeckl and four children -- Adam, Elisabeth (Mrs. Bernard Holscher), Barbara (Mrs. Adam Wombacher), and Joseph.
 George, Sr., & Barbara [Gebhard] Schindler and two children -- John (George?), and Catherine (Mrs.). [In Bavaria, George was a weaver.]
 Michael & Anna Barbara [Deml] Christoph and five children -- John, Elizabeth (Mrs. John Schindler), Barbara (Mrs. Val Weber), Christopher, and Theresa (Mrs. Heinrich William Lampmann).²⁹
 Mrs. Catherine [Rampf] Krapfl (her husband, Jacob, had died during the ocean crossing) and her six children -- George & his wife, Michael, Andrew, Jacob, Anna (Mrs. Fred), and John.³⁰
 George Krapfl and his wife.
 Stephen Hutterer (his wife had died during the ocean crossing) and five daughters -- ? (Mrs. Pegler), Anna (Mrs. George Steger), Barbara (Mrs. Theodore Goerd), Sr., ? (Mrs. Anton Reittinger-Plathe), and ? (Mrs. John Pillmaier).
 Michael & Anna [Schindler] Stoecker/Stackerl and three children -- Jacob, Anna (Mrs. Christopher Christoph), and Barbara (Mrs. John Noethe).

²⁸ The passenger manifest for the Charlemagne was obtained from Stephen Schafer, Little Rock, Arkansas (LDS# 200153, "Passenger lists of vessels arriving at New Orleans, 1 Jan 1845 - 30 Dec 1845). Stephen is a descendant of Mr. & Mrs. George Schindler. He also provided documentation of these immigrants' 1845/46 stay in St. Vincent de Paul Parish, St. Louis, Missouri.

³⁰ Jacob Krapfl was born January 31, 1793, Katzelsried, Oberpfalz, Bavaria, son of Johann and Margaretha [Eiber] Krapfl. He was a master miller. Catharine [Rampf] Krapfl was born July 10, 1799, Katzelsried, daughter of Andreas and Magdalena [Bauer] Rampf. [from: Krapfl, Julia. (1984). Joseph & Anna [Meisel] Stangl/Stangel and son -- John (born in St. Louis).³¹

These families were met in Dubuque by Anton Reitingger and his family, who had come by train from Chicago. The railroad terminated someplace in Illinois, and the family had to walk to Dubuque. Mrs. Reitingger and her youngest son, Joseph, caught pneumonia, and died two months later. A son Michael survived. Anton Reitingger later married Suzanna Hutterer, and they had three children.

The following is from Rev. Arthur A. Halbach's book, Dyersville: Its history and its people (1939):

Early in 1846 these nine [sic] families [and Mr. Urbang] took the boat up the Mississippi to Dubuque where, after transferring their possessions to wagons drawn by oxen, they moved westward from Dubuque.

It is entirely plausible that these Bavarians possessed information about the German-American settlement at New Vienna; or, lacking this, they were told about it by Bishop Loras, who eagerly awaited Catholic settlers at the Dubuque boat landing. Acting upon such information, the settlers took the Dubuque-Delhi Road [a stagecoach road], which had now become a well-known highway for land seekers. At the end of the first day, these intrepid families made a stop-over near an inn along this road which was for many years known as the "Seven Mile House." Here the settlers slept in their wagons on the open prairie, the following day resuming their journey. At the east edge of Farley, a fork in the road confronted them, showing a main traveled road to the southwest toward Rockville and Delhi, and a less impressive trail to the northwest. This was the original Dubuque-Fort Atkinson Road ["Old Mission Road"]. Since they wished to go northwest, they chose the trail.

The line of wagons crept along the banks of Hewitt's Creek. They moved on until they reached a point about two and a half miles northeast of the future site of Dyersville. Here was a spot that challenged their interest. A half hour's brisk walk to the north would bring them to the Fangmann Settlement at New Vienna. A mile ahead to the west ran the North Maquoketa River, spring-fed and wreathed in dense timber. After exploring the vicinity around their temporary camping place, Messrs. Schindler, Stoeckl, and Hutterer climbed a little hill a quarter of a mile southward whence they looked down into a gentle valley whose quiet loveliness thrilled them into the unanimous decision: "This will be our home." pp. 58-60

These families passed near the "McKee Settlement" 5 miles NE of the future town of Dyersville. This settlement was a group of about five families named McKee from Pennsylvania who had arrived several weeks before. They were primarily dairy farmers. All the McKee families had moved west by the time shortly after the Civil War.

It was April 1846 when the Bavarian pioneer families purchased land from the USA Land Office, built log cabins, and became the first European settlers in the Dyersville area (some purchased land in Bremen Twp., Delaware County). Joseph Stoeckl purchased 40 acres on April 13, for $1.25/acre. This land was the "North East quarter of the South East quarter of Section Twenty nine in Township Eighty nine North of Range Two West of the fifth Principal Meridian in the District of Lands subject to Sale at Dubuque Iowa."

The Stoeckl farm was just 2 miles NE of Dyersville, on the north bank of Hewitt Creek. [See Dyersville Area Map in the Appendix] In 1859 Joseph Stoeckl, George Schindler, Theodore Goerd, Sr., and Frank Schulz would mortgage their farms and loan $250 each to St. Francis Xavier Parish to complete construction of a brick church (south of the present St. Francis Xavier Basilica).

Michael Christoph, George Schindler, Sr., and Anton Reitingger signed declarations of intent to become American citizens in Dubuque on April 27, 1846; Joseph Stangl on April 30; George Krapfl and Michael Stackerl on May 1; and Joseph Stoeckl on May 3.

The following is a quote from Celebrating Our Christian Heritage, 1859-1984, 125th Anniversary, Saint Francis Xavier Parish (1984):

Four or five miles to the southwest [of this Bavarian settlement] on the Maquoketa river was the thriving village of Rockville with its large water-operated mill, its well-built stone Methodist church, and its stores and business establishments. Rockville already had a U.S. post office in 1846. The Bavarian colony maintained a rather exclusive existence. On Sundays they walked or rode in wagons or on horseback to New Vienna to attend Mass in the newly erected St. Boniface church. Strangely enough, however, there seem to have been few social contacts with these Westphalian Catholics to the north of them. Rockville to the south of them was the mercantile center for their occasional purchases of supplies and farm materials, and for the sale of their grains to the mill. [p. 6]

In 1848, a Protestant Englishman named James Dyer took up land along the Maquoketa River. He was followed by other English merchants. In 1851 and 1852 they laid out lots and streets for what was to become the town of Dyersville. In 1856 Mr. Dyer and the other merchants convinced the Dubuque and Pacific Railroad to construct its first terminal in Dyersville rather than Rockville. The railroad opened for operation May 11, 1857. Soon Rockville became a deserted village.

³¹ Viola [Joens] Stangl, Knoxville, IA, has been tracing (2003) descendants of Joseph and Anna [Miesel] Stangl. Her husband, Oswald/"Barney" Stangl, is a g-grandson. Joseph Stangl and Anna Maria Meisel were married in Bavaria (place unknown) shortly before immigrating.

In 1857 there was a severe economic depression. Mr Dyer and other English merchants and land speculators were ruined. Then the Civil War started in 1861; many of the English left Dyersville. Some of the original German Catholic pioneers had moved to town, and now others followed, including new immigrants from Germany and Austria.

Joseph Stoeckl, one of the original Bavarian pioneers, drowned on January 28, 1865. After attending a wedding in the Colesburg area, the Stoeckl family and some other families were crossing the flood-swollen Bear Creek west of Dyersville when the bridge collapsed. All were rescued except Joseph Stoeckl, who was swept away in the current while trying to save a child. Margaretha [Bauer] Stoeckl died November 21, 1888. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville. [On Joseph Stoeckl's gravestone is written "Born in Zeinrieth, Kinigl Landg Wohnstrauss, Baiern." This translates as "Born in Zeinried, Royal County of Vohenstrauss, Bavaria"]

Adam Stoeckl, son of Joseph and Margaretha [Bauer] Stoeckl, married Magdalena Braun, daughter of Adam and Margaretha [Zwack] Braun, on October 30, 1860, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville. While Adam Stoeckl and Magdalena Braun were engaged to be married, Adam lost his left arm at the shoulder in a thrashing accident (he was taken in a grain wagon to a doctor in Dubuque). Later, he asked Magdalena if she still wanted to marry him, a man with only one arm. She said, "Yes."

Adam and Magdalena [Braun] Stoeckl had twelve children, four of which died in infancy:

In 1900, Adam and Magdalena Stoeckl retired from farming and moved to Dyersville. In 1910 they celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary. Adam died April 9, 1916. Magdalena died January 30, 1921. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Simon Albert Kortenkamp, the only descendant of Henry and Josephine [Schermer] Kortenkamp to pass on the Kortenkamp name, married Catherine Stoeckl, daughter of Adam and Magdalena [Braun] Stoeckl, on April 18, 1899, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.³⁵ Attendants were Adolph Stoeckl and Josephine Kortenkamp

Simon and Catherine lived for a year with Simon's father, Henry. They then moved to Michael Stoeckl's farm where they built a new house on 15 acres, and Simon worked driving a milk route. Here their first child, "unnamed" (Albert?), died during childbirth on July 24, 1900. Their second child Leonard was born in 1902. After three years they moved to a farm 5 miles north of Dyersville ("Evers place"), but stayed only a short time. It was here that Raymond was born in 1904. The next few years saw Simon and his family make many moves to various farms. It was while farming one mile east of Aurora, Buchanan Co., Iowa, ("Macken farm") that Henrietta was born in 1906.

About 1909, at the invitation of Catherine's sister, Margaret (Mrs. Theodore Goerd, Jr.), farming near Tintah, Traverse County, Minnesota, Simon moved his family, farm equipment, and animals (by train) to Norcross?, Grant County, Minnesota. There were heavy rains that spring and crops couldn't be planted. Simon and his family moved again in 1909 to a farm NE of Rib Lake, Taylor County, Wisconsin. Catherine's sister Mary (Mrs. Anton Schindler) and her family also moved to Rib Lake at this time. Simon wrote in a letter (January 10, 1910):

... everybody is busy hauling forest products like hemlock bark for the tannery which was peeled last summer, and pulp wood for paper of which balsam makes the finest paper in the world, and bass wood is used for making excelsior, and R.R. ties are shipped from here, 110,000 went out last year, and a good many logs for lumber. ³³ According to 1978 newspaper reports, Thomas became a "hobo" and died about 1968 age 74 in Minneapolis with $16.91 in his pocket. The court found he had bonds and money accounts throughout the U.S. worth $64,000. His story was to be an ABC documentary titled "Missing Heirs".

³⁴ As a young girl, Catherine Stoeckl's sister Anna gave her ceramic frog salt & pepper shakers. They now belong to Elizabeth Kortenkamp.

³⁵ Henry Tegeler gave Simon & Catherine a set of green gold-trimmed dishes as a wedding present. These dishes are now in the possession of Marilyn [Kortenkamp-Hernandez] Van Pelt, Grand Junction, IA.

It was while at Rib Lake that Anton was born in 1910. Farming at Rib Lake was impossible -- very wet with little cleared land. In 1911 Simon moved his family, equipment, and animals back Aurora, Iowa. They rented the same farm ("Macken farm") east of Aurora, which they had sold when moving to Minnesota. The milk cows, upon entering the barn after two years absence, went straight to their old individual stanchions.

After one year they moved to the "Kreglow place" 3 miles NW of Aurora. After a few years they moved again to the "Dr. Davis place", 5 miles south of Aurora. Here Simon bought his first car -- a used 1914 Model T Ford. During this time Anton started school in a one-room country school about a mile east; and Richard was born in 1916. Simon and his family finally settled, in February 1918, on a farm one mile west of Aurora owned by Simon's father, Henry. That year Simon received his draft notice for WWI, and had to go to Des Moines for his physical. However, several days after returning home he received a telegram saying the war had ended and he did not need to serve. It was while living here that Simon traded in his Model T for a new 1923 Model A with electric lights and starter.

Altogether, Simon and Catherine Kortenkamp had six children:³⁷

Simon died October 21, 1956, and Catherine died April 23, 1973, at Oelwein. Burial for both was in St. Albert Cemetery, Lamont, Delaware Co., Iowa.

Anton Albert Kortenkamp, son of Simon and Catherine [Stoeckl] Kortenkamp, married Ruth Tegeler on November 4, 1936, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville, Iowa. Ruth Tegeler is the daughter of Victor and Mathilda [Meyer] Tegeler.

Tegeler Genealogy ³⁸

The name "Tegeler" (from the Latin "tegula" meaning "roof tile") refers to a clay worker making tiles and bricks. Every village probably had a tegeler ("ziegler" in high German). The earliest documented Tegeler in this genealogy is Johann Joseph Tegeler, who died in 1800. He lived in Hollage, Hanover [now Wallenhorst-Hollage, Kr. Osnabrück, Lower Saxony, Germany]. The name of his wife is not known. They had five children:

[Johann Heinrich Tegeler worked as a shepard.]

[Mrs. Johann (Maria Elisabeth Droppelmann) Tegeler was born June 3, 1795, Thiene, Hanover, Germany, daughter of Herman Henrich & Margaretha Maria (Herbort) Droppelmann. After her husband Johann died, she married Johann Heinrich Lampe in 1831. She died March 10, 1835, Thiene; burial in _____ .]

³⁸ Franz Vincke, Wallenhorst-Hollage, Lower Saxony, Germany, provided in 1970 and 1974 much of the information about the Tegeler ancestry in Germany. He responded to an ad I placed in an Osnabrück newspaper in 1970. He is a descendant of Franz Heinrich Tegeler (1780-1853), and thus is a distant cousin of the Dyersville Tegelers. There are other distant cousins of this Tegeler line named Tegeler, Vincke, and Witte, living in this Osnabrück and Wallenhorst area of Germany.

Johann Heinrich Tegeler married Maria Elisabeth Droppelmann in 1825. Johann was a shephard. Maria Elisabeth Droppelmann was born June 3, 1795, at Alfhausen, Hanover [now Alfhausen-Thiene, Kr. Osnabrück, Lower Saxony, Germany], daughter of Johann Herman Gerd (born about 1754) and Margaretha Elisabeth [Alberding] (born about 1756) Droppelmann. They were married about 1794.

While living at Thiene, Johann Heinrich and Maria Elisabeth [Droppelmann] Tegeler had their only child. [See Gerhard Tegeler Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]

 - children: Henry (Anna Burkle), Catharine (Mrs. Gerhard Sudmeyer), Gerhard (Anna Brunsmann), Bernard (Theresa Beckmann), John (Catholic priest), Joseph (Margaret Eilers), and Louis (Mary Steffen).

[Gerhard Tegeler immigrated to Cincinnati about 1848, then moved to Quincy, Illinois where he married. About 1855 he moved his family to a farm at "Dixon Settlement" west of Luxembourg, Dubuque County, Iowa; then about 1864 to a farm at the "McKee Settlement" northeast of Dyersville, Iowa. He was a farmer.]

[Mrs. Gerhard (Antonetta Belm) Tegeler was born August 26, 1824, Rieste, Hanover. She was the daughter of Heinrich and Margaretha [Richter] Belm. She immigrated with her family about 1851 to Quincy, Illinois. She died December 9, 1901, Dyersville, Iowa; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.]

In 1829, when Gerhard was only two years old, his father died. On September 20, 1831, his mother married Johann Heinrich Lampe, a farmer, who was born about 1801, Alfhausen, Hanover.³⁹ They had two children, half brothers to Gerhard. The first was Johann Herman Henrich Lampe (1832-1912). The second child, Bernard Heinrich, died in infancy in 1835. Gerhard's mother, Elizabeth [Droppelmann-Tegeler] Lampe, also died that year (March 10), when he was 8 years old. His stepfather, Johann Heinrich Lampe married again in 1835 to Maria Catherina Rechtien (born about 1800). They had two children: Johann Bernard Lampe (1836-1917), and Anna Maria Catherina Lampe (1839-). Thus, by the time Gerhard Tegeler was twelve years old he was essentially living as an orphan with a stepfather, stepmother, half brother, stepbrother and stepsister. And they all had the surname "Lampe".

Gerhard is thought to have worked as a seasonal migrant worker in Holland. Many people in the rural lower class of the Westphalia/Hanover/Oldenburg area worked in Holland each year as "Hollandgaengerei" to supplement their meager income at home. They worked in the fields as farmhands, on the dikes, and in the peat fields. Gerhard's training was as a plasterer.

Gerhard was discharged from military service on May 4, 1848, at Bersenbrück. He immigrated to the U.S. about 1849. He worked as a plasterer in Cincinnati, Ohio, and told of surviving the 1849 cholera epidemic in Cincinnati where "over 4,000 died". He later moved to Quincy, Adams County, Illinois (there were families with the surname Lampe living in Quincy during the mid-1800s). Gerhard arranged for his future wife, Antonetta Belm, to come from Hanover and join him at Quincy about 1850. In 1856, her parents and brothers Bernard and Joseph (tailors), and sister Catherine, of Rieste, sailed from Bremen aboard the Mississippi. They arrived New Orleans, November 1, 1856. From there they went to Quincy.

Belm Genealogy

Antonetta Francisca Johanna Belm was born August 26, 1824, at Rieste (Lage Parish, now St. John the Baptist Catholic Church) Kreis Bersenbrück, Hanover [now Rieste, Kr. Osnabrück, Lower Saxony, Germany]. This is not more than two miles from Thiene where Gerhard Tegeler was born.⁴⁰ Antonetta's parents were Margaretha Maria [Richter] and Johann Heinrich Belm. Margaretha Richter was born April 15, 1798; Heinrich Belm about 1795. They were married November 21, 1823, Lage Parish, Rieste (witnesses: Joane Henrico Josepho Fleddermann and Margaretha Maria Theresia Richter). Other surnames in this genealogy are König, Tackenberg, and Im Walle. [See Antonetta Belm Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]

Heinrich and Margaretha [Richter] Belm had at least four children while living at Rieste.⁴¹

³⁹ Some of the information about the Lampe family was obtained from the Ancestry World Tree at www.ancestry.com.

Antonetta came to America about 1850 when she was about 26. It was thought she made the Atlantic crossing with Gerhard's adoptive family -- the Lampes. However, Gerhard's stepparents, Heinrich and Catherine Lampe, his half brother Heinrich, his stepbrother Bernard, and stepsister Catherina, all immigrated to New Orleans, arriving February 2, 1851, aboard the Milan of Bath from Bremen, Germany (Antonetta is not on the passenger list). The Lampes settled in Dubuque County, Iowa, at the Dixon/Dickson Settlement, about 2 miles west of Luxemburg.⁴²

Antonetta's parents, Heinrich and Margaretha Belm, brothers Bernard and Joseph, and sister Catherine, immigrated to New Orleans; arriving November 1, 1856, aboard the Mississippi from Bremen, Germany.

There were other Belm and Lampe families living in Quincy and Adams County in the mid-1800s. Gerhard's stepfather, Johan Henrich Lampe, died December 8, 1875, Dyersville, Iowa.

Heinrich Belm died in Quincy on November 15, 1856, in his 61st year. Margaretha [Richter] Belm died in Quincy on December 30, 1864, in her 68th year. Burial for both was in St. Boniface Cemetery.

Gerhard Tegeler and Antonetta Belm were married at Quincy on February 17, 1852, in St. Boniface Church. Gerhard worked as a plasterer. Their first child, Henry Tegeler, was born at Quincy, September 19, 1852.

⁴² Johann Herman Heinrich ("Henry") Lampe married Gertrude Schumacker, February 10, 1863, New Vienna. Gertrude was born 1830, Theine, Hannover [Germany]. Their children were Anna, Gertrude (died in infancy), Maria Gertrude, Wilhelmina, and Antonetta. The family moved to Arcadia, Iowa, in the 1880s. Johann Bernard married Bernadine Olberding, January 19, 1864, New Vienna. Their children were Henry and Anna Catherine. This family also moved to Arcadia, Iowa. Henry Lampe died 1912, Foss, Washita Co., Oklahoma.

In 1855, Gerhard moved his family onto a 40-acre farm at Pine Hollow, Dixon/Dickson Settlement, west of Luxemburg, Dubuque County, Iowa (about a mile south of the present White Pine Forest Preserve).⁴³ The land was unbroken and had no buildings, but he immediately built a log cabin for his family. Here several more children were born. Gerhard became a USA citizen on November 19, 1856, Dubuque County.

After about 9 years Gerhard and his family moved to a farm at the McKee Settlement, 5 miles northeast of Dyersville in Dubuque County.⁴⁴ [See Dyersville Area Map in the Appendix]

*"A German farmer, Gerhart Tegeler, was [an] early purchaser of McKee land in Section 23, New Wine Township. He had a horsedrawn corn planter with a hand trip lever operated by a boy riding next to the seed corn box. Tegeler was hired by Appleton McKee to plant his crop with this speedy device. Appleton later sold his land to Mr. Tegeler."*⁴⁵

Polder, Emmett. (2003). North Fork Nostalgia, p. 33.

Gerhard Tegeler became the first German to settle among the English McKee settlers.

Altogether, Gerhard and Antonetta [Belm] Tegeler had eight children (seven survived):⁴⁶

⁴³ This frontier settlement was established by Sam and Missouri Dickson, who moved to Iowa from Illinois in 1837.

⁴⁴ This farm is just north over the hill from right field in the famous "Field of Dreams" about 3 miles northeast of Dyersville.

⁴⁶ Much information about the children of Gerhard and Antonetta Tegeler was provided by Ruth [Tegeler] Kortenkamp and Modesta Tegeler.

[Mrs. Bernard (Theresa Beckmann) Tegeler was born January 28, 1863, Dyersville; daughter of Gerhard and Agnes [Kramer] Beckmann. She died May 7, 1928, Dyersville; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery. There was a triple funeral for Bernard & Theresa, and their son Larry.]

About 1880, Antonetta's brother Bernard Belm and his wife Catharina died at Quincy. Their orphaned daughters moved to Dyersville and were raised by Gerhard and Antonetta Tegeler. These children were, Anna (Sr. Mary Modesta), Frances (Mrs. Adam Stoeckl), and Theresa (Mrs. William Tyre). There may have been another daughter and a son. Gerhard's stepmother, Maria Catherina [Rechtein] Lampe, was also living with Gerhard and Antonetta in her 80s toward the end of her life.

Gerhard Tegeler had a good team of road horses, and often took Rev. Anton Kortenkamp on his mission trips to Worthington.

Gerhard and Antonetta Tegeler retired from the farm in 1892, and moved to 126 Vine, the NE corner of Vine and Victoria (now 2nd Ave. and 2nd St; 126 2nd Ave, SW), in Dyersville.⁴⁷ Gerhard died there on December 27, 1900. Antonetta died there December 9, 1901. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Henry Tegeler, the oldest child of Gerhard and Antonetta, received his early education in a rural school near Luxemburg. Later he attended St. Francis Teachers College in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, starting in 1870. In 1873, at the age of 21, he became a teacher in the one-room Rock School located 2 miles northeast of Dyersville. On October 18, 1877, he married Anna Burkle, daughter of Raphael/Ralph and (Anna) Maria/Mary [Heinrich/Henry] Burkle.

Raphael/Ralph Burkle was born October 24, 1831, at Trillfingen, Hohenzollern, Prussia [now Trillfingen-Haigerloch, Zollernalbkreis (Balingen), Baden-Württemberg, Germany].⁴⁸ He emigrated ("entwischen" = escaped, fled) with his brother Markus in 1849, arriving July 2, 1849, New York City, aboard the Highland Mary from London.

⁴⁷ Raphael Burkle, father of Mrs. Henry [Anna Burkle] Tegeler, built this house in 1866. It was bought in 1900 by John Tegeler; in 1910 by Gerhard Tegeler, Jr., and owned 1939 to 1987 by Victor and Mathilda Tegeler. It was moved to 1008 Madalyn Court, Monticello, Iowa, on September 22, 2000.

⁴⁸ Near the end of WWII the Nazi atom bomb research lab, led by Werner Heisenberg, was moved from Berlin to Hechingen near Haigerloch. A heavy water nuclear fission test reactor was constructed in a camouflaged cave under the castle church of St. Ann in Haigerloch. A self-sustaining nuclear reaction was never achieved. This reactor and the scientists were captured by the Allies in the spring of 1945. The cave is now a museum, the Deutsche Atomforscher Museum.

Burkle Genealogy⁴⁹

The earliest documented Bürkle in this genealogy is Michael Bürckhle, born about 1644, Trillfingen. He was a "Meßner"/"Messner" (church sexton). [see Raphael Burkle Ancestor Tree in the Appendix] There were many Bürkle families living in Trillfingen at this time; their names variously spelled Birkle, Birckle, Birikle, Bürckle, Bürckhle, Bürkhle, etc. Other surnames in this genealogy are: Bingmer, Bieger, Blatzin, Eberhart, Haydin, Heim, Horn, Hünlin, Keßler/Kessler, Sell, Stelzer, Stöhle/Stehle, and Weckler.

Michael Bürckhle married Anna Weckler June 20, 1704. They had ⁴⁹ Information about the Bürkle ancestry in Germany, was obtained (1984-2000) from Justine Pawelski, Stevens Point, WI. She is a descendant of Markus Burkle. Information was also provided (2000-2004) by Daniel Burkle, Des Moines, IA, and his sister, Marilyn Burkle, Milwaukee, WI. They are descendants of Raphael/Ralph Burkle. Daniel and Marilyn have visited other Burkle researchers in the U.S., attempting to connect the various USA Burkle branches. Marilyn has also traveled several times to Trillfingen-Hagerloch, Germany. In 1999 they organized a Burkle reunion in Dyersville, IA. They are the authors of Bound by Burkle Blood (2004), a 210-page history of the Burkle ancestry including all known descendants.

Melchior Bürkle, born January 3, 1787, son of Dominik and Elisabeth [Stehle] Bürkle, married Johanna Horn, daughter of Wendel and Elisabeth [Stelzer] Horn, on August 3, 1824, at Trillfingen.

Melchior, a "Schuster" (shoe maker), and Johanna [Horn] Bürkle had six children while living at Trillfingen:

Maximilian, born April 27, 1825. Died May 19 (9?), 1847, Trillfingen.

Joseph, born June 6, 1827. Died October 4, 1854, Trillfingen.

Markus, born April 25, 1829. Died October 13, 1910, at Stevens Point, Portage County, Wisconsin. Burial in St. Stephen Cemetery.

- married Anna Maria Mersch, May 30, 1865, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville, Iowa
- children: Anna Marie/"Annie" (Mrs. Arthur Allen Miller), Mathias Charles/"Mathew" (Barbara Isabelle McDonald), Joseph Nicholas. (Elenor/"Ella" Bibby), and Genevieve/"Eva" (single).

[Markus Burkle emigrated ("entwischen" = escaped, fled), with his brother Raphael in 1849, arriving at New York City aboard the bark Highland Mary on July 2, 1849, from London. They then went to Rochester, Monroe County, New York. Later he moved to Dyersville, Iowa. He owned and ran a grocery/bar/general merchandise store. When he retired he moved to Stevens Point, Wisconsin, about 1887.]

[Mrs. Markus (Anna Maria Mersch) Burkle was born September 26, 1844, Luxembourg(?); daughter of Michel and Catherine (Wantz) Mersch. They were from Platen, Luxembourg. She emigrated at age two with her family, leaving Antwerp, Belgium, on June 26, 1847, aboard the Belgian bark Anversois (broker: Breguigny). They arrived New York City on September 11, 1847. They first lived in Franklin, Milwaukee County, Wisconsin; but by 1860 they were living in Epworth, Dubuque County, Iowa. She died January 2, 1924, Stevens Point; burial in St. Stephen Cemetery.]⁵¹

Raphael, born October 24, 1831. Died June 2, 1889, at Dyersville, Iowa. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Anna Maria Heinrich/Henry, February 5, 1854, St. Joseph Church, 108 Franklin St., Rochester, New York.
- children: Maria Elizabeth (died age 8), Johanna/"Hanna" (died age 6), Maria Anna (Mrs. Henry Tegeler), Katherina Emmerenzia/"Emma" (died age 1), Raphael/Ralph (Elizabeth Fortmann), Joseph Ralph (Mary Klassen), Anna Elizabeth/"Lizzie"/"Lilly" (Mrs. Christopher, Christian/"Chris" A. Klassen), and Ludwig/"Lewis" (died age 3).

[Raphael Burkle's father died in 1837 when Raphael was five years old. His mother, who had six children, then placed him with his widowed aunt Emmerenz Burkle, who provided him with a good education including music lessons (Raphael's grandson, Victor Tegeler, said in 1969 that Raphael was raised in Liechtenstein). Emmerenz Burkle's husband, Gabriel, had also died in 1837, and her only two children had died in infancy. Raphael emigrated ("entwischen" = escaped, fled) with his brother Markus in 1849, arriving at New York City aboard the bark Highland Mary on July 2, 1849, from London. They then went to Rochester, Monroe County, New York. He worked in a carpenter in an organ factory. He later moved to Dyersville, Iowa, where he worked as a carpenter, school teacher, church organist and choir director. He later became a farmer at Worthington, Iowa. He retired at Dyersville.]

[Mrs. Raphael (Anna Maria Heinrich/Henry) was born October 9, 1830, Rineck, Baden; daughter of Michael and Eva Catherine (Reichert) Henrich. She died Aug 11, 1900, Dyersville; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.]

Felix, born January 14, 1834. Died , at . Burial in

- married Rosa Schaal,
- children: Anna Maria (born 1861; baptized April 9, 1865, Holy Family, Rochester, NY; witnesses: Conrad Kellen, Anna Maria Kelli).

[Rosa Schaal was born , at ; daughter of . She died December 14, 1866, Rochester, NY, at age 35 of "inflammation of breasts". Burial in .]

- married Crescentia (Christina?) Gernsbacher, , in Church,
- children: Rosalia Elizabeth/"Libbie" (December 3, 1867), and twins George Maximilian/"Maxie", & Joseph/"Josie" Wendelin (born October 1869). All baptized October 11, 1869, St. Peter & Paul, Rochester, NY. Witnesses: Rosalie Weldele, George Hermann, Wendelin Weldele.

[In the 1880 US Census, Elizabeth and Joseph "Birkle" were living in the St. Joseph German Orphan Asylum, Andrews St., Rochester, NY.]

[Felix Burkle immigrated to Rochester, New York. He was living in Rochester when he signed a "Declaration of Intent" to become a USA citizen on October 28, 1864; and a "Naturalization" paper on October 29, 1864, stating that he had lived in the USA for at least five years. The 1870 Census for Rochester has a "Felix Bergley" (age "38"), "working in a cabinate shop", born in "S_ymur__", wife Christina (40), children -- Libbie (2), Maxie (male 7/12), & Josie (male 7/12) ("twins" born December 1869). Felix and Christina are not in the 1880 Census, but Elizabeth and Joseph "Birkle" are listed in this census among orphans in the St. Joseph German Orphan Asylum, Rochester. The 1890 Census records were destroyed in a fire in the 1920s. In the 1900 Census for Rochester, Joseph is listed as single and a "boarder" working as a "pressman".

Elisabeth, born September 9, 1836. Died March 2, 1905, at _____ Church, Trillfingen.
 - married Theodor Sauter, June (January) 27, 1863, in _____
 - children: Josephian (Mrs. _____), Friedrich Wilhelm (Ludovika Straub, Bertha Haid), Maximilian (died age 1 month?), and Johann (_____).
 [Theodor Sauter was born February 24, 1836, Trillfingen; son of Bernhard and Monika (Beuter) Sauter. Theodore was a "Bauer", i.e., farmer. He died October 14, 1882.]

Melchior Bürkle died April 27, 1837. His son Raphael was only five years old. There is a story (told by Victor Tegeler, Raphael's grandson, in a 1969 audio taped interview) that Raphael's mother, Johanna, was unable to support all her children, and placed Raphael with his widowed aunt, Emmerenz Bürkle, living in Liechtenstein, Hohenzollern, Prussia [now Liechtenstein, Baden-Württemberg, Germany], or living in Vienna, Austria. Aunt Emmerenz Bürkle had also lost her husband, Gabriel, in 1837, and her two children had died in infancy. She was able to help her sister-in-law, Johanna, by raising Raphael. She gave him a good education including music lessons. Raphael's mother, Johanna [Horn] Bürkle, died February 12, 1864.

Raphael emigrated ("entwischen" = escaped, fled) from Germany with his brother Markus in 1849, arriving at New York City aboard the barkship Highland Mary on July 2, 1849. It had sailed from London. Raphael and Markus settled in Rochester, Monroe County, New York. (Victor Tegeler, Raphael's grandson, said in a 1969 interview that Raphael worked as a carpenter in an organ factory "in Albany". On February 5, 1854, Raphael married Anna Maria Heinrich/Henry at St. Joseph Church, Rochester.

Henry/Heinrich/Henrich Genealogy ⁵²

(Anna) Maria Henrich (Heinrich/Henry) was born at Rineck, Baden [now Rineck, Kr. Neckar-Odenwald (Mosbach), Baden-Württemberg, Germany], on October 9, 1830; and baptized in St. Georg Catholic Church, Rittersbach (a. Mosbach), Baden. [See Anna Maria Henry/Heinrich/Henrich Ancestor Tree in the Appendix] Her parents were Michael and Eva Catherine [Reichert] Henrich. They had a least two children while living at Rineck:

Joseph (Karl),⁵³ born July 3, 1816. Died March 8, 1905 ("88 years"), at Dyersville, Iowa. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.
 - married Maria Anna Münch, May 28, 1841, in St. Georg Catholic Church, Rittersbach (a. Mosbach), Baden.
 - children: Joseph Karl (_____), Johann Martin (Anna Catherine Evers?) _____), Maria Anna (Mrs. Nickolas Weber), and Karl/Charles (_____).

[Joseph Henrich (Heinrich/Henry) immigrated (age "34") with his wife Anna ("30") and three children – Joseph ("9"), Martin ("5"), and Anna ("5") -- and his sister Anna Maria ("19"), aboard the Roscoe, from Antwerp arriving New York City, July 8, 1850. ⁵⁴ Joseph and his wife had at least one more child (born September 10, 1853) while in New York City:]

Lena (Mrs. Matthew Drasda).

⁵² Information about the Henrich ancestry in Germany was obtained from LDS microfilms # 1049369 and # 1049371 [Katholische Kirch Rittersbach (a. Mosbach), Kirchenbuch, 1699-1900]. These films include the towns of Rineck, Muckental, Auerbach, and Obereicholzheim. I have 13 immigrant ancestors. After 27 years of research I still had one immigrant ancestor to trace to their hometown in Germany. In 1996, on a rented microfilm at the Wausau, Wisconsin, Later Day Saints (Mormon) Family History Center (FHC), I finally found the baptismal record of that last ancestor -- Anna Maria Heinrich, 1830, St. Georg Catholic Church, Rittersbach, Baden. This only happens once in the life of a genealogist. I dropped everything, got on my motorcycle, and went to Wal-Mart where I bought a box of chocolates to celebrate with the volunteers and patrons at the FHC. Then I went home and opened a bottle of champagne.

⁵³ Much of the information about Joseph Henry in the U.S was obtained from Halbach, A. (1939). Dyersville: Its history and its people.

⁵⁴ Rineck was a small village that in 1787 was established as "New Rineck" to be a home for drifters or homeless people ("Landfahrer"). These people were seasonal workers, the unemployed, circus folks, street performers/artists, beggars, etc. They were often hungry and unable to find steady employment; they were forced to move about, looking for occasional work, begging, and sometimes stealing. It's estimated that in the 18th century 5-10% of the population were homeless and forced to wander about. Many people at New Rineck had been deported from their former villages. However, the land at New Rineck was so poor it had the nickname of "Wüstenei" ("desert wilderness"), and the residents returned to poaching, begging and theft. The town became known in the area as a gypsy camp. In 1849, the neighboring villages paid for the forced deportation of the residents of Rineck to the United States. They were deported in three groups. The first group of 168 left Rineck on October 3, 1849. The second group of 200 left May 11, 1850.

The third group of 235 (including the Henrys) traveled to Mannheim, then Köln (Cologne) by train, and to Antwerp to depart May 15, 1850, aboard the ship Roscoe for New York City. Father Mathias Volk, pastor of Saint Georg Church in Rittersbach (the nearest Catholic church), accompanied this group as far as Antwerp. Every head of a household was given 24 gulden, and each family member and each independent person was given 10 gulden. Father Volk also gave every person a handwritten document with their birth, baptism, etc.; and he gave each head of a family a complete transcript of what the parish records had on that particular family covering multiple generations. A large number of the Rinecker's settled in Rochester, Monroe County, New York. On December 2, 1850, the town of New Rineck was dissolved. I traveled to Rineck with my son David in May 2009. There is one farm there -- "Hofgut Rineck" -- which is now a seminar and health center for pranic healing and yoga (from gypsies to hippies!).

[Joseph and his family then moved to Rochester, Monroe County, New York, where they had twins:
Albert/"Alfred"/"Alois" (), and William ()].

[A few weeks after the twins were born, Joseph Henry moved his family in 1855 to Dyersville, Iowa. They were the first German Catholic family to settle in Dyersville proper. About a week after arrival in Dyersville, Mrs. Joseph (Maria Anna Münch) Henry died in a primitive hut which stood at the northeast edge of Dyersville, a district later known as "Irishtown."]

[Mrs Joseph (Maria Anna Münch) Henry was born , at ; daughter of Johann Peter & Anna Maria [Noe] Münch . She died , 1855, Dyersville; burial is thought to have been at New Vienna, Iowa.]

[After the death of Mrs. Joseph [Maria Anna Münch] Henry, the children were separated and taken in by different families, especially the Stoeckl and Theodore Goerd, Sr., families.]

[The second Mrs. Joseph Henry (Shreve) was born , at , the daughter of . She died in childbirth on , at Dyersville. Burial was in the first cemetery north of Dyersville, which was abandoned a few years later. Her body, by some oversight, was never transferred to the new cemetery. The first cemetery came under cultivation, and when Joseph wanted to move her remains the exact location of her grave could not be determined.]

- married Theresia Brockert/ Borckert, May 5, 1860, in Church,
- children: Louis (), Josephine (Mrs. John Smith)⁵⁵, Anna/Teseanna? (Mrs.), Elizabeth/"Lizzie" (Mrs. N. P. (Mrs. William Cunningham), and August (died in childhood?).

[Mrs. Joseph (Theresa Borchert) Henry was born January 3, 1835, at Münster, Westphalia, Germany, daughter of . She came to New Vienna about 1859, and worked at the home of Father Pape's parents until her marriage. She died , 1897, at Dyersville. Burial was in .]

[Joseph Henry was trained as a carpenter in Germany. He was one of the pioneers who helped build old St. Francis Church in Dyersville in 1858. Some time before 1860 he built a home on Lot 41, corner of Rockville and East DeWitt Streets. He later bought the John Drees farm from Mr. Toogood. In 1895 he and his wife Theresa retired to a residence on Hamilton St., Lot 138.]

[In a 1969 audio taped interview, Victor Tegeler said that Albert & John Henry lived in St. Louis and were very rich.]

(Anna) Maria/Mary, born October 9, 1830. Died August 11, 1900, at Dyersville, Iowa. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Raphael Bürkle, February 5, 1854, in St. Joseph Church, 108 Franklin St., Rochester, New York.
- children: Mary Elizabeth (died age 8), Johanna/"Hanna" (died age 6), Maria Anna (Mrs. Henry Tegeler), Katherina Emmerenzia (died age 1), Raphael/Ralph (Elizabeth Fortmann), Joseph Ralph (Mary Klassen), Anna Elizabeth/"Lizzie"/"Lilly" (Mrs. Christopher, Christian/"Chris" A. Klassen), and Ludwig/"Lewis" (died age 3).

[(Anna) Maria/Mary immigrated with her brother's family aboard the Roscoe, from Antwerp, arriving New York City, July 8, 1850.]

[Raphael Bürkle was born at Trillfingen, Hohenzollern, Prussia [now Trillfingen-Haigerloch Zollernalbkreis (Balingen), Baden-Württemberg, Germany], on October 24, 1831, the son of Melchior and Johanne (Horn) Bürkle. He immigrated, with his brother Markus, arriving at New York City aboard the Highland Mary on July 2, 1849, from London. They then went to Rochester, Monroe County, New York. He worked in an organ factory. He later moved to Dyersville, Iowa, where he worked as a carpenter, school teacher, church organist and choir director. He later became a farmer at Worthington, Iowa. He retired to Dyersville. He died June 2, 1889, at Dyersville; burial was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.]

It is not known when or where Michael and Eva Catherine [Reichert] Henrich, the parents of Anna Maria Henrich/Heinrich/Henry, died.

(Anna) Maria/Mary Henrich (Heinrich/Henry) came to America (age "19") with her brother's family on the ship Roscoe from Antwerp, Belgium, arriving at New York City, July 8, 1850. She may have stayed in New York City with Joseph's family before they moved to Rochester, Monroe County, New York, about 1853.

Maria/Mary Heinrich (Henry) married Raphael Bürkle on February 5, 1854, in St. Joseph Church, 108 Franklin St., Rochester, New York.. October 23, 1854, Raphael became a USA citizen. Raphael and Maria had their first child in Rochester -- Maria Elizabeth, in 1855.

Felix Bürkle was living in Rochester when he signed a "Declaration of Intent" to become a USA citizen on October 28, 1864; and a "Naturalization" paper on October 29, 1864, stating that he had lived in the USA for at least five years.

⁵⁵ Carol Bacon, Aurora, Illinois (2006) has traced the ancestry of John Smith, and the family of John & Josephine [Henry] Smith from Worthington, Dubuque Co., to Minnesota in Cottonwood Co., Springfield Twp, later Traverse Co, Croke Twp., and later Otter Tail Co., Homestead Twp.

He eventually disappeared and no one knew what happened to him. In 2011, I discovered him in the 1870 Census for Rochester listed as "Felix Bergley" (age "38"), "working in a cabinete shop", born in "S_ymur__"?, wife Christina (40), children -- Libbie (2), Maxie (male 7/12), & Josie (male 7/12) ("twins" born December 1869). Felix and Christina are not in the 1880 Census, but Elizabeth and Joseph "Birkle" are listed in this census among orphans in the St. Joseph German Orphan Asylum, Rochester. The 1890 Census records were destroyed in a fire in the 1920s. In the 1900 Census for Rochester, Joseph is listed as single and a "boarder" working as a "pressman". It is not known what happened to Felix, his wife Christina, or their son Maxie. Nor is it known what happened to Joseph or Elizabeth.

In 1856, Raphael and his family moved to Dyersville (following Joseph Henry and his family who moved to Dyersville in 1855). Raphael worked as a carpenter, helping build the first Catholic church in Dyersville. He also worked as a country school teacher; one school being the George Menke School north of Dyersville. Raphael and Maria had three more daughters during this time. They lived opposite the Dyersville Park, where Mrs. Herman Meyer was living in 1969.

In 1863 a dysentary plague (the "bloody flux") struck. Raphael and Maria lost three of their four children within a one week period in July, 1863. One daughter, Mary Anna, who was three years old, refused to take the medicine, which was so strong a drop of it would burn a hole in cloth. The front of her nightgown became full of holes where she had spit out the medicine. Of the four children, she alone survived. She grew up, taught school for awhile south of Dyersville (the Bell School), married Henry Tegeler, and eventually had thirteen children.

In the fall of 1865 Father Kortenkamp, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Parish, hired Raphael Burkle to teach at the newly-built St. Francis Xavier School, play the organ in church, and direct the choir. He was the first teacher at this school. To be close to school, Raphael built a house in 1866 on the NE corner of Vine and Victoria Streets (now 2nd Ave. and 2nd St., SW, 126 2nd Ave., SW), just across the street from the school. He bought Lot 314 from Mary Bagley. She lived on this lot in a simple frame house, which later became a barn behind the house that Raphael built.⁵⁶ However, Raphael was teaching as many as sixty pupils at one time, from age 5 to 25, and in 1868 he had to leave teaching because of his health. He returned to carpentry.

In 1872, Raphael moved his family to a farm near Worthington, Iowa. He also served as organist and choirmaster when Father Kortenkamp held services at the Worthington Mission. Gerhard Tegeler often drove Father Kortenkamp on his mission trips to Worthington. In 1883, Raphael and Maria moved to a farm 3 miles south of Dyersville.

Altogether, Raphael and Mary [Henry] Burkle had eight children:

(Mary) Elizabeth, born March 26, 1855. Died July 7, 1863 ("age 8y 3m") at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

Johanna/ "Hanna", born May 17, 1857. Died July 15, 1863 ("age 6y 2m"), at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

(Maria) Anna, born October 25, 1859. Died October 16, 1951, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Henry Tegeler, October 18, 1877, in Church,.

- children: Antonetta Cecelia (Mrs. Joseph Beckman), Aloysius (Adeleid Gerken), Frank (Cora Mae Lewis), Anthony (Celia Luther), Anna (Mrs. John Drees), Leo (Veronica White), Hugo (Anna Meyer), Victor (Mathilda Meyer), Irene (single), Eleanor (Mrs. Henry J. Schafer), Hildegard (Mrs. Marcellus Drexler), Modesta (single), and Waldemar/Walter (Marguerite Schultz).

[Henry Tegeler was born September 19, 1852, Quincy, Illinois; son of Gerhard and Antonetta (Belm) Tegeler. He attended St. Francis Teachers College in Milwaukee. He worked first as a school teacher, but later became a farmer. He also served as Township Clerk of New Wine Township, as Justice of the Peace, and as Representative from Dubuque County in the 33rd General Assembly (1908-1910) of the Iowa State Legislature in Des Moines. He died July 8, 1932, Dyersville, Iowa; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.]

Emmerenzia/"Emma" Katherina, born April 7, 1862. Died July 7, 1863 ("age 1y"), at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier.

Raphael/Ralph, born May 2, 1864. Died August 24, 1948, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Marie Elizabeth Fortmann, April 10, 1888, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

- children: Mary (Mrs. Reynold Roth), Josephine (Mrs. Sylvester/"Vist" White), Frank (), Ludwina (Mrs. George Recker), Paul H. (), Ralph (), Celeste (Mrs. Walter Kramer), and Irwin (Josephine Westemeier).

[Ralph Burkle worked as a farmer and Justice of the Peace. He retired to Dyersville, 1922.]

[Mrs. Ralph (Elizabeth Fortmann) Burkle was born January 10, 1868, in Oldenburg, Germany; daughter of Joseph and Josephine [Rolfes] Fortmann, Sr.. Elizabeth immigrated 1869 to the USA. She died January 12, 1954, St. Francis Hospital, Dubuque; burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.]

Joseph (Ralph), born September 27, 1866. Died January 15, 1922, at Sheldon, O'Brien Co., IA. Burial in St. Patrick Cemetery.

- married Mary Margaret Klassen, January 13, 1892, in St. Paul Church, Worthington, IA,.

Anna Elizabeth/"Lizzie"/"Lillie", born July 26, 1870, Dubuque, Iowa. Died May 31, 1958, at La Porte, IN. Burial in - married Christopher/Christian/"Chris" Klassen, February 4, 1891, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.
- children: Gertrude (Mrs. Thompson), Anna (Mrs. Bernard Bowman), Mary (Mrs. Bowman), Ralph (), John (), Martha (Mrs. McAllister), Eugene (), and Margaret (Mrs. William Nixon), and two other children.

[Anna worked as a school teacher before marriage.]

[Chris Klassen was born December 10, 1862, at Dyersville; son of Christopher and Magdalen [Doctor] Klassen. He worked as a farmer. He moved about 1910 from New Hampton, IA, to La Porte, IN, where he was an orchard farmer. He died September 17, 1928; at La Porte; burial in .]

Ludwig/Louis, born July 14, 1874. Died October 14, 1877, at Dyersville. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

Raphael and Mary [Henry] Burkle retired to Dyersville in 1888, when their son Ralph took over the farm. Raphael died in his residence in east Dyersville on June 2, 1889. Mary died August 11, 1900. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Henry Tegeler, son of Gerhard and Antoinette [Belm] Tegeler, attended St. Francis Teachers College in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Beginning in 1874, he taught school for several years. He married Anna Burkle, October 18, 1877, at Dyersville, and operated a rented farm (Anna Burkle had attended St. Francis Xavier School, and taught school until her marriage). After one year they bought the Benn farm (known as "Botsford's pasture") on the eastern edge of Dyersville. He still taught school (Rock School) while clearing the land, selling the wood to the railroad, and farming. Henry and Anna farmed there about 12 years, and it was here that Victor was born in 1891. They sold this farm after about one and a half years, and moved to a rented farm in 1893 at Bankston, Dubuque County. In 1894 Henry bought a 200 acre farm at the McKee Settlement, about 4 miles NE of Dyersville. This farm became known as the "Henry Tegeler Farm". Although farming was his principal occupation, as a Democrat, Henry served 12 years as Township Clerk of New Wine Township, and also as Justice of the Peace. In 1908 he was elected State Representative and served a term (1909-1910) in the 33rd General Assembly of the Iowa State Legislature in Des Moines. He was a Representative from Dubuque County. He also served as Grand Knight of the local council of the Knights of Columbus.

Henry and Anna [Burkle] Tegeler had thirteen children:⁵⁷

Antonetta/"Nettie" Cecelia, born October 11, 1878. Died November 20, 1932, at Dyersville, Iowa. Burial in - married Joseph Beckmann, September 20, 1903, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

In about 1893 the Tegeler farms of Henry, Louis, Bernard, and Joseph east of Dyersville were connected by telephone with the help of Rev. John Tegeler:

"As far as I can find out this was the first rural telphne line in Dubuque Co. I remember coming home from school when the line was finsished, and crawling up on a high chair. I rang my uncle Joe and asked to talk to my cousin Albert, that was my first telephone experience. My father's ring or number was one long ring, Louis's two rings, Barney's three, and Joe's four rings."

Tegeler, Victor. (1969}. The First Rural Phones in Area.

Although farming was his principal occupation, Henry Tegeler, as a Democrat, served 12 years as Township Clerk of New Wine Township, and also as Justice of the Peace. Beginning 1909 he served one term in the 33rd General Assembly of the Iowa State Legislature in Des Moines. He was a Representative from Dubuque County.

From the farm, Henry and Anna Tegeler retired to 214 E. Victoria St. [now 214 2nd St. SE] in Dyersville in 1915. Henry and Anna celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1927. Henry died July 8, 1932. Anna later lived with her daughters Irene and Modesta at 214 2nd St., SE, until she died at the age of 91, October 16, 1951. In Rev. Arthur Halbach's Dyersville: Its history and its people (1939), Rev. Halbach acknowledges Mrs. Tegeler for "her great interest and her fine memory of Dyersville history ... [and for giving] great assistance to the compilation of this history." (p. 475)

The children of Henry and Anna Tegeler grew up on the "Henry Tegeler Farm" about four miles NE of Dyersville.⁶² They walked the mile to St. Francis Country School, and for a couple years the four miles to St. Francis Xavier School in Dyersville for instructions before their First Holy Communion.

Victor remembered his first train ride at age 14. His father took him to the Tri-State Fair, Nutwood Park, Dubuque. There he saw the racehorse, Dan Patch, set a world record in harness racing.

Victor Tegeler started the first grade in Miss Anna Schermer's country classroom at St. Francis School about 1896. There, sitting on the long benches, he got to know the other pupils, including a little girl by the name of Matilda Meyer. When they were older they joined Miss Schermer's Dramatic Club. There were double doors at the back of the school where there was a chapel. The plays were held there. In one play – "Mrs. Thompson's Hired Man" -- Victor played the hired man. Anna Schermer began teaching 1896 when she was 16 years old. She was the daughter of Simon and Mary [Wacha] Schermer. She had as many as 45 students, and was paid $34/month (Mathilda's father was on the School Board, and she wrote out the checks). Anna Schermer taught until 1914, when she married George Beckmann. Victor began to walk Mathilda home after the plays. Victor and Mathilda went to parties together, and started to date.

On January 13, 1914, Victor Tegeler and Mathilda Meyer were married in the basement chapel of St. Francis Xavier Church. She was the daughter of John and Elisabeth [Pasker] Meyer.

Meyer Genealogy⁶³

Mathilda Meyer's father was John Meyer. His parents were Theresia [Schliekelmann] and Bernard Meyer.

Johann Bernard Joseph Meyer was born September 4, 1823, at Bokel (near Cappeln), Oldenburg [now Cappeln, Kr. Cloppenburg, North Saxony, Germany]. [See Bernard Meyer Ancestor Tree in the Appendix] His parents were

Schliekelmann Genealogy⁶⁶

(Catherine) Theresia Schliekelmann was born July 27, 1824, at Mettingen, Kreis Tecklenburg, Westphalia, Prussia. [now Mettingen, Kr. Steinfurt, North Rhine Westphalia, Germany].⁶⁷ Her father was Hermann Heinrich Schliekelmann, born May 13, 1799, at Mettingen. He was an “Arbeiter” (a laborer). Theresia’s mother was Engel/Angela Brinkmann, born February 26, 1796, Mettingen. Herman Schliekelmann and Engel Brinkmann were married October 14, 1823, at St. Agatha Church, Mettingen.

This Schliekelmann ancestry has been traced back to about 1600 to the farming area of Schlickelde (now a suburb of Mettingen). Schlickelde was the seat of the noblemen von Sliclo line (Hermann & Werner), ministerials of the bishops of Osnabruck in the 13th Century. Residents of Sliclo (Schlickelde) later assumed the name Schlickelmann. They owned the original manor, after which the farm Schlickilde was named, or whose name they assumed. “Schlick” is a northern German word that means “mud”. The Schlickelmanns later went into the merchant trade and moved away from Mettingen. The Schlickelmann farm was inherited by August Mersch in 1924.

Other spellings of Schlickelmann have been Schlyckelman, Schligelmans, Slickelman, Schlickelmann, Slijkelman, Slykelman, Slijkeman, and Slijkerman. Other surnames in this ancestry are Aalkemeyer, Aardt/Aert/Art/Aart/Artemeyer, Becker, Bergmeyer, Brinkmann/Brinckmann, Covers/Kovers, Hauseman, Hövemeyer (Höuw), Frehe/Wrehe/Vrehe, Huesmann, Knoye, Nordhausen/Northausen, Oeinckhaus, Overmeyer, Schneider, Schulte zu Farenhaus, Schütte, Spieker, Telsemeier, Wesseling, and Wulf. [See Theresia Schliekelmann Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]

Hermann and Engel [Brinkmann] Schliekelmann had at least four children while living in Mettingen, Germany:

Herman (Andreas), born November 29, 1821 Died March 29, 1893 ("age 73y"), at Dyersville, Iowa. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery.

- married Elizabeth Mönke/Moenke/Menke November 11, 1851, Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Cincinnati?, Ohio.
- children: Herman (Christine Jasper, she later married Henry Kramer in 1879), John (died in infancy), Sophie (Mrs. Henry Bockelman), Maria/Mary (Mrs. Frank Bockelman), Henry (), Clemens (Louisa Klostermann, Elizabeth Tritz), and Elizabeth Agatha (Mrs. Tony Balster).

[Herman Schliekelmann immigrated with his parents in 1849 to Cincinnati. He worked on a dairy farm, and later as a farmer at New Vienna, Dubuque County, Iowa. He and his wife retired to Alton, Iowa, and lived with their daughter, Mrs. Frank Bockelman. After his wife died, he moved to Dyersville, Iowa, and lived with his son Clemens.]

⁶⁶ Most information about the Schliekelmann ancestry in Germany, including a picture of the Schlickelmann bakehouse in Mettingen, built in 1725, was collected by Elisabeth Bertmaring, Mettingen, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany, in 1995/96. She is no relation, but very generously volunteered (via e-mail) to do this research. Further information about the Schliekelmann ancestry can be found in the Dutch books by K.J. Slijkerman. More information can be found in the German history of Mettingen by Hubert Rickelmann (1978) Mettingen im Wandel der Zeiten, 2nd ed. [trans: Mettingen in changing times, 2nd ed. 708 pages]. There is a road in the Schlickelde suburb of Mettingen called “Schlickelmannweb.” Martin Fee, North Tustin, CA, also contributed information. He is a descendant of Hermann & Engel [Brinkmann] Schliekelmann.

⁶⁷ Halbach’s (1939) Dyersville: Its history and its people has Theresia Schliekelmann born in “Steinfeld, Oldenburg”. Marianne Schliekelman, St. Louis, informed me (1994) that Theresia was born in Mettingen, Westphalia. Marianne also had info about Theresia’s immigration in 1849.

⁶⁸ Information about the Johann Heinrich & Maria Anna [Schliekelmann] Grote family was provided (2007) by Sarah Klaus, Mission Viejo, CA; and (2007) by Martin Fee, North Tustin, CA. They are descendants, and have done extensive research on descendants. Martin Fee has researched the Grote ancestry.

[Johann Heinrich Grote was born May 8, 1821, at Bakum, Oldenburg, Germany; son of Johann and Maria (Kathmann/Katmann) Grote. He worked as a . He died April 10, 1893, Wheatland Twp., Carroll Co., Iowa; burial in Breda, Carroll Co.]

Amalia, born October 9, 1841. Died April 29, 1843, Mettingen.

Hermann and Engel [Brinkmann] Schliekelmann immigrated with their children to the USA in 1849. They left Bremen aboard the Mary Florence, and arrived in New Orleans on November 5, 1849.⁶⁹

It is thought that Theresia's future husband Bernard Meyer came to America with her family. They settled in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Theresia's brother, Herman Schliekelmann, married Elisabeth Mönke, November 11, 1851, Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Cincinnati. After running a dairy farm for one year they moved to a farm near New Vienna, Iowa.

Theresia's father, Herman Schliekelmann, died October 27, 1877 ("age 87y 6m 17d"), at Dyersville. Burial was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery. Herman's wife, Engel, died, June 13(14?), 1870 ("age 74y 4m"), at New Vienna, Iowa. Burial was in St. Boniface Cemetery, New Vienna.

Theresia Schliekelmann and Bernard Meyer were married October 13, 1850, in St. Paul Church, Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio.

Bernard and Theresia [Schliekelmann] Meyer had their first(?) child, Bernard in Ohio (or Kentucky?). He is thought to have been born October 24, 1852 (there is no baptismal record at St. Paul's or Old St. Mary's in Cincinnati). Bernard moved his family to Covington, Kenton Co., Kentucky, about 1853, and Bernard worked in a brick kiln. At Covington they had another child, "Johannes Gerer. Meier," August 2, 1854 (baptized October 3, Mother of God Church, Covington).

In 1855 Theresia's brother Herman moved his family to New Vienna, Iowa. And, in 1856 Bernard Meyer and his family moved to a farm (the "Roy Hullerman farm") 5 miles north of New Vienna, Iowa, where they lived 12 years. Then they purchased a farm 3 miles SE of Dyersville. Joseph Meyer moved his family to Dyersville in 1865 or 1866 after Philomena and Edward were born. (The story is they traveled by boat down the Ohio River from Cincinnati to Cairo, Illinois, and then another boat up the Mississippi to Dubuque, Iowa.)

Bernard and Theresia [Schliekelmann] Meyer had eight children:

⁶⁹ Mettingen was a North European center for flax growing, linen spinning and weaving, and linen marketing. When the Industrial Revolution replaced hand spinning and weaving with machines, and cotton began to be imported to Europe, the price of linen fell terribly during the 1840s. In addition, there were very poor rye harvests in this region during 1846 and 1847 increasing the price of rye. Many people dependent upon the linen industry could no longer support themselves. There was a wave of emigration from Germany during this time.

John Meyer's first wife, Anna Klostermann, died August 11, 1882, at the age of 21. He then married Elizabeth Pasker on July 10, 1883, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville, Iowa.

Pasker/Pascher Genealogy ⁷¹

Elizabeth Pasker's parents came to America from Prussia [now Germany]. Her father was Gerhard Heinrich Pascher [Henry Pasker], born at Coesfeld, Westphalia, Prussia [now Coesfeld, Kr. Coesfeld, North Rhine-Westphalia, Germany], on March 27, 1828, and baptized in St. Jacob Church. [The Pascher/Paschers/Paskes/Paskus name is found in the Coesfeld church records back to the late 1600s.]. Other surnames in this ancestry are Hagemann, Helms, and Leifkes/Leivckes. [See Heinrich Pasker/Pascher Ancestor Tree in the Appendix]

Henry Pasker's parents were Catharina Elisabeth [Hagemann] (born 1794) and Johann Wilhelm Pascher (born 1783), a daylaborer. They had at least eight children:

[Gerhard Heinrich/Henry Pasker immigrated to Baltimore in 1847. It is said he lived for two years in Boston, and then Cincinnati, where he declared for citizenship November 25, 1852. About 1856 he moved to New Vienna, Iowa, where he farmed (although it is thought he was a cooper by trade).]

⁷¹ Information about the Pasker ancestry in Germany was obtained from Latter Day Saints microfilm records for Coesfeld, Westphalia, Germany; and Unity in Communigy: St. Boniface Parish 150 years – New Vienna 100 years (1995)..

[Mrs. Henry (Elizabeth/Libby Tauke) Pasker was born August 26, 1833, Twistringen, Hannover, Germany; daughter of Johann Rudolph and Margarethe Adelheid (Ellerhorst) Tauke. It is not known when she immigrated to the USA She died December 11, 1897, New Vienna, Iowa; burial St. Boniface Cemetery.]

Catherine(?), born March 30, 1831. Died
- married Henry Kreimer(?)

It is not known where or when Johann Wilhelm and Catharina Elizabeth [Hagemann] Pascher died

Henry Pasker emigrated from Prussia at age 19. He sailed from Bremen, Germany, and landed at Baltimore on November 4, 1847. From Baltimore he went to Boston where he lived two years; then he went to Cincinnati. He filed for U.S. citizenship in Cincinnati on November 25, 1852.^{72 73}

In 1856 Henry Pasker was living at New Vienna, Iowa. There are stories told by Victor Tegeler that Henry arrived, on foot, in the New Vienna area with 25 cents in his pocket. Using this money to buy an ax, he went into the woods north of New Vienna and began making barrels for businesses in Guttenberg. He was a cooper by trade. There is a story that a brother, "Christ", immigrated after Henry, settled in Cincinnati and was never heard from since.

Henry was thought to be a rather odd person by some people. He wore his hair long and parted it in the middle; wore a hat but never wore a cap, explaining that while on the ship coming to America the wind had blown his cap off. He owned quite a lot of land at "Pine Hollow", usually had 30 to 40 horses, and enjoyed showing off by vaulting onto and over his horses into his 80s. He spent a lot of time reading market reports and calculating with a pencil how much profit he could make.

Henry Pasker married Elisabeth ("Libby") Tauke on November 9, 1858, in St. Boniface Church, New Vienna, Iowa.

Tauke Genealogy⁷⁴

(Maria) Elisabeth Tauke was born August 26, 1833, at Twistringen, Hanover [now Twistringen, Kr. Diepholz, Lower Saxony, Germany] and baptized in St. Anna Church. Her parents were Maria Elisabeth [Kramer] and Johann Heinrich Tauke.

(Maria) Elisabeth Tauke's mother, Maria Elisabeth [Kramer] Tauke, was born March 26, 1790, at Twistringen.⁷⁵ She married Johann Heinrich Tauke on February 1, 1826, St. Anna Church, Twistringen. Her parents were Johann Caspar & Gesina Maria [Hardjen/Hartken] Kramer. Johann Caspar Kramer was born at Twistringen (date unknown). Gesina Maria Hardjen was born at Neuenmarhorst, Hanover (date unknown). They were married August 20 1776, St. Anna Church, Twistringen.

Johann Caspar and Gesina Maria [Hardjen/Hartken] Kramer had at least two children in addition to Maria Elisabeth:

⁷² It is thought Henry Pasker had another brother – Christopher (who supposedly immigrated to Cincinnati). A Caspar Pascher, Leibzüchter (tenant farmer), born September 2, 1787, immigrated to Baltimore from Gaupel, parish of Coesfeld, in 1842. He brought his wife Maria Anna Blenker (b. February 7 1796 in Osterwick); and children: Josef (b. October 5.1815), Bernhard (b. April 3 1823), Gertrud (b. December 24 1825), Heinrich (b. October 11 1827), Maria Anna (b. December 20 1829), Anton Hermann (b. September 13 1834), & Clara Carolina (b. October 23 1837). His son Heinrich, an "Ackersnecht" (farm servant), born October 11, 1827, is listed again as emigrating from Gaupel in 1847. A Bernard Pasker, age 24, male farmer from Gaupel came to the USA on the ship Schiller, arriving at Baltimore, December 15, 1847, destination Cincinnati.

⁷³ In the family section of the St. Boniface Church records are the following families: Joseph Pascher (b. October 5, 1815, Gaupel, Coesfeld Parish), married to Gertrude Schoemaker, children Anna Elizabeth, Albert Joseph, Heinrich, and Bernhard Heinrich; Elizabeth Pascher (b. May 10, 1817), married to Heinrich Schlaghek (b. Billerbeck, Coesfeld Parish), children Casper Heinrich, Anna Elizabeth, and Bernhard Heinrich; and Anna Maria Pasker (b. February 22, 1819), married to Joseph Reisberg (b. Bitterbeck, Coesfeld Parish), children Casper, Maria Anna, Anton, Wilhelm, and Anna. Joseph Reisberg died May 18, 1870.

⁷⁴ Info about the Tauke ancestry in Germany was provided (1993, 1999) by Otto Bach, a researcher at the Stadtarchiv Twistringen, Lower Saxony, Germany; and (1998, 1999, 2001) by Hubert Bomas, Bremen, Germany. Hubert Bomas is descended from Dethmar and Rebecca [Schwarten] Tauke.

⁷⁵ Information about the Kramer ancestry in Germany was provided (1993) by Otto Bach, a researcher at the Stadtarchiv Twistringen, Lower Saxony, Germany, and (1998, 1999, 2001) by Hubert Bomas, Bremen, Germany. Hubert Bomas is descended from Dethmar and Rebecca [Schwarten] Tauke.

(Maria) Elisabeth, born March 26, 1790. Died March 14, 1885, Twistringen. Burial in Cemetery.⁷⁶
 - married Johann Heinrich Tauke, February 1, 1826, St. Anna Church, Twistringen.
 - children: Maria Adelheid (Mrs. John Schlichte), Catherine Maria (Mrs. John Dalhelm, Mrs. Henry Rothues), and Maria Elisabeth (Mrs. Henry Pasker).
 [Johan Heinrich Tauke was born July 26, 1789, Twistringen, son of Johann Rudolph and Margarethe Adelheid (Ellerhorst)Tauke. He died April 14, 1842, Twistringen.]

It is not known when or where Johann Caspar and his wife Gesina Maria [Hardjen/Hartken] Kramer died.

The earliest documented Tauke in this genealogy is Dethmar Tauken/Tauke, born Dethmar Lampe about 1678 (parents and place unknown). [See Elisabeth Tauke Ancestor Tree in the Appendix.] Other surnames in this Tauke ancestry are Arnekens, Diephaus, Ellerhorst, Hardjen, Kramer, Schütte, Schwarten, and Siemers.⁷⁷

Dethmar Tauke was born about 1680 as Dethamar Lampe (he was also known as Dobcke Lampe). Dethmar Lampe married Anna Sanders on November 29, 1710. In 1713 they took over the Tauke farm in Scharrendorf, and thereafter called themselves "Tauke." Mrs. Dethmar [Anna Sanders] Tauke died September 22, 1716, at Scharrendorf. Dethmar Tauke then married Rebecca Schwarten on December 3, 1716, St. Anna Church, Twistringen. Dethmar Tauke is recorded as a "Halbmeier" (i.e., a co-manager of the farm). Rebecca Schwarten was from Neuenmarhorst, Hanover; she was born about 1679 (parents and place unknown).

Dethmar and Rebecca [Schwarten] Tauke had at least two children:

Henrich, born about 1717. Died after 1750, at . Burial in .
 - Gesina Maria ?
 - children: Johann Henrich (Maria Elisabeth Funke), and Johann Rudolf (Margarethe Adelheid Heidkamp).

Johann Rudolf, born February 21, 1721. Died January 20, 1795, Scharrendorf, Hanover. Burial in .
 - married Gesina Maria Schütte, November 28, 1752, St. Anna Church, Twistringen.
 - children: Johann Rudolph (Margarethe Adelheid Ellerhorst, Catharine Margarethe Diephaus), Rebecca Maria (Mrs. Johann Heinrich Funke), Johann Wilke (Anna Maria Heidkamp), and Theodore ().
 [Johann Rudolf Tauke was a .]
 [Mrs. Johann Rudolf (Gesina Maria Schütte) was born August 9, 1729, Mörsen-Nordfelde, Hanover; daughter of Henrich [Siemers] and Margaretha Schütte. She died April 27, 1787, Scharrendorf. Burial in .]

Dethmar Tauke died October 25, 1756, Scharrendorf. His wife, Rebecca [Schwarten] Tauke, died September 7, 1741, Scharrendorf.

Johann Rudolph Tauke, the son of Dethmar and Rebecca [Schwarten] Tauke married Gesina Maria Schütte November 28, 1752, St. Anna Church, Twistringen. She was born August 9, 1728, at Mörsen-Nordfelde, Hanover, the daughter of Henrich [Siemers] and Margaretha Schütte (Margaretha was owner of the Schütte farm, and Henrich took her surname after marriage. The Siemers farm at Mörsen has been traced back to 1570 when the name was spelled "Simers," and to 1545 when it was spelled "Symer."⁷⁸). Heinrich Siemers was the son of Theodor [born about 1646, son of Henrich Siemers and Margaretha (surname unknown), married about 1645] and Anna Adelheid Diephaus (born December 30, 1658, in Mörsen).

Theodor Siemers and Anna Adelheid Diephaus were married about 1685. They had at least five children while living at Mörsen:

⁷⁶ There is a Maria Elisabeth Kramer, born November 6 (October 12?), 1805, Twistringen; who married Johann Albert Bavendick/Bavendiek, June 27, 1843, St. Anna Church, Twistringen. Johann Albert Bavendick/Bavendiek was born October 25, 1818, at , son of . He was an Eigenhäusler (house owner) and tailor. He sailed from Bremen with his wife (age 34), and children Rebecca (18), Anna (11), Engela (6), and F. "Kremer" (23, farmer) aboard the American ship William V. Kent, and arrived at New Orleans, November 22, 1854. They settled, at New Vienna, Iowa. Albert Bavendick signed his Declaration of Intent to become a US citizen in Dubuque on June 18, 1856, at age 38. Albert & Maria Elizabeth Bavendick's children were -- Maria Anna, October 18, 1843 (Mrs. Henry Vonderhaar); Angela, February 2, 1848 (Mrs. Franz Winkel); and Anna, June 14, 1862 (Mrs. Franz Vormann). Interestingly, there are no children listed with them in the 1856 State of Iowa Census. Maria Elizabeth [Kramer] Bavendick died November 27, 1871, New Vienna. Albert died August 29, 1894, New Vienna. Burial for both was in St. Boniface Cemetery. Note: Otto Bach (1991) has Albert Bavendick as the second husband of Maria Elisabeth Kramer (born 1790), widow of Johann Heinrich Tauke. This is probably an error.

⁷⁷ There were other Tauke families living in the Twistringen area. [See Other Tauke Families of Scharrendorf and Twistringen in the Appendix.]

⁷⁸ Information about the Siemers farm and genealogy was provided in 1999 by John Siemers, Lafayette, Indiana; who obtained it in 1999 from Otto Bach , a researcher at the Stadtarchiv Twistringen, Lower Saxony, Germany. John is a descendant of Anna Siemers (born about 1690) brother to Henrich Siemers/Schütte. Some information is from the website of Jörn Wellhausen , Hanover, Germany (www.wellhausen.com).

Johann Rudolph, born January 30, 1810. Died June 1, 1810, at Twistringens.

Johann Rudolph Tauke died December 25, 1829 at Twistringens. It is not known when or where his second wife Catherine Margarethe [Diephaus] died.

The first child of Johann Rudolph and his first wife Margarethe Adelheid [Ellerhorst] was Johann Heinrich Tauke. He married Maria Elisabeth Kramer on February 1, 1826 at Twistringens. Maria Elisabeth Kramer was born March 26, 1790, Twistringens, daughter of Johan Caspar and Gesina Maria [Hardjen/Hartken] Kramer.

Johann Heinrich, oldest son of Johann Rudolph and Margarethe Adelheid [Ellerhorst], and his wife Maria Elisabeth [Kramer] Tauke had three children:

Maria Adelheid, born February 28, 1827. Died September 1, 1918, at New Vienna, Iowa. Burial in St. Boniface Cemetery.

[It is not known when Elisabeth Tauke immigrated to the US. She is not in the 1856 State of Iowa Census, Dubuque County.]

[Henry Pasker was born March 27, 1828, Coesfeld, Westphalia, Germany; son of Johann Wilhelm and Catharina Elisabeth (Hagemann) Pascher. He immigrated emigrated to Baltimore in 1847. The story is that he lived for two years in Boston, and then moved to Cincinnati. About 1856 he moved to New Vienna, Iowa, where he farmed (although it is thought he was a cooper by trade).

Johann Heinrich Tauke died April 14, 1842, at Twistringens, when Elisabeth was only 8 years old. Her mother Maria Elisabeth [Kramer] Tauke died March 14, 1885, at Twistringens.⁷⁹

It is not known when (Maria) Elisabeth Tauke came to America, but her sister Adelheid is thought to have immigrated in 1847 (perhaps with the John and Elizabeth Schlichte family), and sister Catherine is thought to have immigrated in 1853 (perhaps with the Johann Albert and Maria Elisabeth Bavendick family in 1854). Elizabeth, Adelheid, and Catherine were first-cousins-once-removed to Heinrich/(Henry Tauke who came to America from Twistringens in 1832. Henry Tauke and his wife were among the founders of Minster, Auglaize County, Ohio, in 1832; and later among the founders of New Vienna, Dubuque County, Iowa.

Heinrich/Henry Tauke was born May 23, 1807, Scharrendorf. His father was Johann Wilke Tauke [an "Eigenhäusler" (house owner)], born May 29, 1770, at Scharrendorf. His mother was Anna Maria Heidkamp born about 1768, Scharrendorf (parents unknown). They were married at Twistringens in December 1799.

Johann Wilke and Anna Maria [Heidkamp] Tauke had five children while living at Scharrendorf:

Johann Conrad, born August 26, 1802. Died , at ,

Some information on New Vienna families came from the research of Dale Frank Muehler, Chicago, Illinois.

Maria Magdalena, born November 24, 1838. Died (in childhood?) , at (Minster?). Burial in

By 1843, this German settlement at Minster was becoming crowded with new immigrants.⁸¹ The Tauke family (with one daughter Maria Adelheida), and five other German-American families, left Minster on May 20, 1843, with six yoke of oxen and six covered wagons, then commonly called "prairie scooners." They had heard that excellent farmlands could be obtained in the Black Hawk Purchase, Iowa Territory. [Besides the Tauke family, the other five families were those of Johann Fangmann, Franz/"Frank" Fangmann, Friedrich Rohenkohl, Herman Heinrich Wiechmann, and Gerhard Hellmann.]

Heading westward across Indiana and Illinois, crossing the Mississippi River at Burlington, Iowa, they arrived in Iowa City the end of August. Their intention was to settle at Iowa City, however they were disappointed with this area. Continuing north a few miles, they camped at Cascade. From here they sent two members to Dubuque to consult with Bishop Loras, who had become widely known in the USA and Europe for his friendship and assistance to new immigrants. Four other members were sent north through Dubuque County to find a suitable area in which to settle.

There is an interesting story as to how this group of immigrants decided on a "suitable area":

During the month of September they unhitched their yoke of oxen at or near a two hundred acre patch of fine timber which was then known as Wilson's Grove. ... this land was still too rolling they thought. With the waning of the growing season and the approach of winter on the austere prairie and little provisions and protection against its severities, they determined to go eastward again and draw closer to civilization. It was now October, and as the men rounded together the oxen which were feeding at large on the wild grasses, John Fangmann in his hurry slipped on a wet hillside, fell and broke his leg. To this accident New Vienna owes its founding. As the return journey had to be postponed in favor of the accident victim, the different families "dug in" for the winter and prepared for the worst. Fortunately an open winter favored them; spring came early, and the appearance of the North Maquoketa Valley with its gentle undulating landscape dressed in the fresh green of spring pleased them. They stayed, staked off claims around what is now New Vienna, built log cabins and sent enthusiastic letters to friends in Ohio and in Germany inviting many to participate in the building of a great community.

Halback, Rev. Arthur A. (1939). Dyersville: Its history and its people, pp 57-58.

This settlement was first known as "Fangmann's Settlement." Bishop Loras later named it New Vienna, in honor of Leopold, Emperor of Austria, who had contributed much to spread the Catholic Faith in the USA through the Leopoldine Society. In 1844 Henry Tauke donated land to build St. Boniface Church and the town hall.

Henry and Rebecca [Ellerhorst/Elleros] Tauke had four more children after coming to New Vienna, in addition to Maria Adelheida who came with them from Minster in 1843 when she was seven years old. All together they had six children:⁸²

John Meyer died February 1, 1931, at Dyersville. Elizabeth [Pasker] Meyer died November 22, 1944, at the home of her daughter Pauline (Mrs. Frank Vorwald), Dyersville. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville, Iowa.⁸⁶

John and Elizabeth Meyer had raised their children on a farm about 3 miles NE of Dyersville. Their house was just across the road south of the St. Francis Country School. It was while growing up here, attending the Country School and participating in the Drama Club, that Mathilda Meyer met and fell in love with Victor Tegeler. Anna Schermer was the teacher. She was the only teacher that Mathilda had.

Children would walk into town for First Communion lessons at the end of the school year. Victor had to walk 4 miles, and Mathilda 3 miles. They would take a shortcut across what is now the Dyersville Golf Course, where they sometimes encountered wolves. They carried matches and newspapers to light and scare away the wolves.

Victor Tegeler and Mathilda Meyer were married on January 13, 1914, in the basement chapel of St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville. This was a Tuesday, and the upstairs of the church was heated only for Sunday services.

Two weeks after the wedding, they packed up their belongings and moved to a farm near New Hampton, Iowa.⁸⁷ Here, in 1915, their first child, Ruth, was born. After two years on this farm, Victor moved his family back to Dyersville and sold "light plants" (generators and batteries) to farmers so they could generate their own electricity. He also worked repairing pumps and windmills. He later installed gaslights and worked evenings in his sisters' (Irene, Eleanor, Hildegard, and Modesta) cafe in Dyersville. In 1918 he worked as a wood pattern maker in Galena, Illinois, commuting on the weekends. About 1920, the family moved to a farm at the Dixon/Dickson Settlement north of New Vienna. Around 1923 they moved to a farm 5-6 miles west of Worthington ("Big Slough Farm" near Hopkinton, Delaware Co.) where two more children were born. When Robert was born, the doctor from Dyersville could only get part way by car, and Victor had to meet him with a team of horses and sled.

Victor and Mathilda Tegeler had four children:

- Ruth Bernice Anita, born April 3, 1915, at New Hampton, Iowa. Died August 17, 2000, Waterloo, Iowa. Burial in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville, Iowa.
 - married Anton/"Tony" Kortenkamp, November 4, 1936, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.
 - children: LIVING CHILDREN DELETED

⁸⁷ Some of the following information about Victor & Mathilda Tegeler's family is from a brief typed autobiography by Ruth [Tegeler] Kortenkamp, and the "Autobiography of Paul Henry Tegeler" (2012).

[Anton/"Tony" Kortenkamp was born July 18, 1910, Rib Lake, Wisconsin; son of Simon and Catherine (Stoeckl) Kortenkamp. He farmed the "Kortenkamp Farm" for a couple years, then worked various odd jobs until World War II when he became a riveter modifying B-24 bombers for Northwest Airlines in St. Paul, Minnesota. After the war he became a car/truck mechanic in Oelwein, Iowa. He also worked several years as a hospital custodian at Mercy Hospital in Oelwein. He and Ruth retired to Cedar Falls, Iowa, in 1981. In 2004, Tony moved to an assisted-living apartment in Marion, Iowa. He had a stroke in October 2010, and died October 25 at the Northbrook Manor Care Center, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.]

LIVING CHILD DELETED

Another move occurred March 1, 1929, to a farm 3 miles SW of Arlington, Fayette County, Iowa. At Worthington, everything was loaded on sleds, and taken about ten miles by county roads to the highway, which was plowed. It was then loaded on trucks and taken the 40 miles to Arlington. There it was again loaded on sleds and taken the last two miles to the new farm.

October 15, 1932, during the Great Depression, Victor and his family had to move off their farm at Arlington. He had borrowed money from his parents to start farming; but when the bank in Dyersville failed his parents lost all their savings. Victor sold his farm and repayed the loan so they could pay for the house they had just built at 214 E. Victoria St. [now 214 2nd Ave. SE], Dyersville. Victor then moved his family to Strawberry Point, Iowa, where they lived at 205 West Mission St.

Times were very difficult. Victor got a job in a dairy for one quart of milk and $1.00/day. However, he was soon laid off when the boss' nephew needed a job. During the winter of 1935 they lived mostly on walnuts gathered from the forests, and on potatoes and cabbage from the garden. Usually they had money for oatmeal, and occasionally for eggs. Victor worked at odd jobs trying to provide for his family. The children helped out the best they could. Ruth worked for various families doing housework. One winter Victor had to go to the parish priest who ordered coal to get them through the winter. Another job Victor had during this time was with the federal government's Public Works Administration (PWA)/ Works Project Administration (WPA) building the Lock and Dam #10 on the Mississippi River at Guttenberg, Iowa. He carried coal in a metal basket for the steam equipment for 50 cents/hour.

Victor finally moved his family back to Dyersville in October, 1935. There he first operated a Texaco Service Station on the corner of 2nd Ave. and 9th St., SE. But, some days it didn't pay enough to buy a loaf of bread. He quit this job and started selling and delivering Morman's Mineral to farmers for livestock. He later worked in the Silver Streak plow factory in Dyersville. To help out, Robert and Paul would pull their coaster wagon along the railroad tracks to pick up coal that fell off the trains, to use in heating and cooking.

In 1939, Victor bought some equipment from a farmer who had retired from the shoe repair business, and opened a shoe repair shop on 1st Ave. E. ["Main St.,"], in a small building owned by his brother, Hugo who operated the Dyersville Hotel next-door. The building had been used as a sample room for salesman to set up their displays, and had also been a bakery. Victor later expanded his services to include all leather and canvas repair (shoe styles changed and shoe repairs became less common). He also sold leather merchandise such as saddles, bridles, whips, belts, wallets, purses, etc. He called it Tegler's Harness Shop, and operated this shop for 25 years until retiring in 1964 when the shop was razed to make a parking lot for the Dyersville National Bank [now the site of the Matthias M. Hoffman Public Library]. He sold his equipment to the Amish, who loaded it on August 22, 1964.

It was also in 1939 that Victor and Mathilda bought their first house. This house, at the NE corner of Vine and Victoria Streets (now 2nd Ave. and 2nd St., SW; 126 2nd Ave, SW), was the same house built in 1866 by Victor's grandfather, Raphael Burkle, while he was a teacher at St. Francis Xavier School, just west across the street. Incidentally, Victor's other grandparents, Gerhard and Antonetta Tegeler, had also lived in this house after retirement until their deaths in 1900 and 1901. In 2000 the house was moved to 1008 Madalyn Court, Monticello, Iowa.

In retirement, Victor and Mathilda remained very active. They had a large garden every year, and Victor would make grape and dandelion wines. He also loved to hunt and fish. They both took many trips together visiting their children, relatives and friends. Victor was quite active in community celebrations. During the Dyersville Centennial Celebration in 1972 he wore his grandfather Gerhard Tegeler's wedding suit and boots, and grew a beard which won first prize in the beard judging contest as the oldest person with a beard.

Victor and Mathilda (known as "Vic and Tillie" to their friends) celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary in 1964, and their 70th in 1984. They were the oldest married couple in Dyersville at the time.

Victor died at the age of 94, on November 27, 1985, in a nursing home in Guttenberg, Iowa. Mathilda died at the age of 98, on August 6, 1987, in Dyersville. Burial for both was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville.

Ruth Tegeler, daughter of Victor and Mathilda [Meyer] Tegeler, married Anton Kortenkamp, November 4, 1936, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville. Anton was the son of Simon and Catherine [Stoeckl] Kortenkamp.⁸⁸

Ruth Bernice Anita Tegeler was born April 3, 1915, on a farm near New Hampton, Chickasaw County, Iowa. When she was about one her family moved to Dyersville. Later they moved to a farm north of New Vienna, where Ruth started 1st grade in a country school. At age seven her family moved to the "Big Slough Farm" about 5 miles west of Worthington. Part of the farm was marsh and timber land. Ruth would have to go into the timber to bring the cows home in the evening. In season she would bring a pail and fill it with gooseberries or blackberries before heading home. In the spring Ruth would look for turtle eggs to bring home and hatch. Once the eggs turned out to be snake eggs! There were lots of snakes on the farm. Ruth lived there for seven years and attended country school through 7th grade, walking one and one-half miles to school.

For 8th grade Ruth lived in Dyersville and attended St. Francis Xavier School, living with her Grandpa and Grandma Tegeler – Henry & Ann [Burkle] Tegeler. She also took religion classes preparing for Solemn Communion and Confirmation. For 9th grade she lived with her uncle and aunt, Marcellus & Hilda Drexler. When her family moved to a farm at Arlington, she stayed in Dyersville to finish 9th grade; but joined them that summer.

Ruth attended Public School at Arlington. It was a 3-mile walk, which in winter "was no fun, no roads plowed out and a cold north wind to face in the mornings." She took secretarial courses, and during her senior year she worked as a school secretary, and was in charge of supplies and first aid. She graduated in 1932 with a class of fifteen students.

Unfortunately, that same year her parents had to leave their farm because of the Great Depression and move to Strawberry Point, Iowa. There were no office jobs, so Ruth worked doing housework for various families – cooking, cleaning, doing wash. Tired of these jobs, Ruth started nurses training at Mercy Hospital in Iowa City. However, after two months she hurt her back, and doctors told her to forget nursing. She moved back home.

It was at Strawberry Point Ruth met her future husband – Anton/"Tony" Kortenkamp. Tony and his friend, Johnny Nate (neighbor Rose Stoeckl's brother visiting from Dyersville) had gone to a movie. It was a rainy Saturday night on March 3, 1934. After the movie, Tony and Johnny were cruising around when they saw Ruth and her friend, Helen Imlow/Enlow/Enloe?, walking. Tony stopped and asked if they would like a ride. Ruth and her friend refused the offer, saying, "We don't ride with strangers." Tony said, "I can fix that. We don't have to be strangers." He introduced himself, and showed Ruth the car registration. After a private discussion, Ruth and her friend accepted the ride because Ruth recognized the name "Kortenkamp" as being from Dyersville. Tony said, "It's early. Want to go for a ride?" They went for a ride to the south end of Strawberry Point. The girls said they didn't want to leave town, so Tony turned around in a used car lot and parked there. The girls agreed to a date the next weekend – Ruth with Johnny (she didn't like Tony's moustache). After that date, Helen did not want another date. A couple weeks later Tony wrote a letter to Ruth asking for a date. Ruth accepted, and they began dating.

In 1934 Ruth mailed an application for housekeeping work to St. Francis Hospital in Waterloo, Iowa. She was hired and told to begin on a Monday. However, she "had to find a way to get there. A bread man took me along on his route which ended in Waterloo. We girls (a dozen) lived above the laundry in the hospital and got all our meals plus $15.00 per month which was pretty good for that time. I liked the job, the patients I met and the girls I lived with."

Tony proposed to Ruth on Christmas Day, 1935. The engagement ring, from a Sears & Robeck catalog, was a Christmas present.

Ruth worked at St. Francis Hospital two years, until she married Anton/"Tony" Kortenkamp on November 4, 1936, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville.

Anton/"Tony" Kortenkamp was born June 18, 1910, on a farm NE of Rib Lake, Taylor County, Wisconsin, the son of Simon and Catherine [Stoeckl] Kortenkamp. He was named after his great-uncle, Rev. Anton Kortenkamp. Simon had moved his family from Aurora, Iowa, to Minnesota in 1909, and then to Rib Lake in 1910. They were neighbors to the Anton and Mary [Stoeckl] Schindler family who had moved to Rib Lake from Dyersville. In 1911 Simon moved his family back to the same farm at Aurora he had left in 1909. The Anton Schindler family eventually settled on a farm near Trempealeau, Wisconsin.

Tony's family moved a couple times, eventually renting the "Dr. Davis place" five miles south of Aurora. It was here that Tony's father bought his first car in 1916 – a 1914 Model T Ford with a crank starter and kerosene headlights. Tony remembered his father coming in the driveway, after buying the car, and running into the windmill when becoming confused over the foot pedals. And it was while living here that Tony began country school, a short distance east on the south side of the road. The older kids at school would have to go to the neighbors for a pail of water each day. When his parents bought his grandfather Kortenkamp's farm 1 mile west of Aurora, Tony went to the Public School in Aurora where he went through 8th Grade (there were ten grades in four rooms). He sometimes walked to school along the railroad tracks. One day "an engineer asked me if I wanted a ride. I really felt big sitting in the locomotive. At recess we played cops and robbers, not just on the playground but in the entire town!" It was while living here that Tony's father bought a new 1923 Model T in Oelwein, with a battery and automatic starter. Tony remembered how surprised the family was when this car with bright headlights came up the road and pulled into their driveway.

He also began helping out at home. It was his job to pump and carry enough water to fill the drinking pail in the kitchen, and also fill the reservoir on the cook stove for washing dishes, and for washing their hands and faces. When he was older he worked for neighbors at harvest time, earning around seventy-five cents a day. He "also trapped in the fall for muskrats and mink. A muskrat pelt would bring around $2.50 and a mink pelt about $10.00. It was really quite a thrill when I saw a mink in a trap. I also raised baby pigeons (squabs) in the attic above the granary. I shipped them to Chicago receiving $2.00 per dozen. The fancy restaurants served them for a high price."

In February of 1930, Tony had surgery for a stomach ulcer. There were complications with healing and by July he was very sick. The doctor said to ice the incision and remain completely still. It was late at night and the ice house was closed; but Tony's father broke into the ice house in Aurora and got some ice. Tony had his second surgery on July 12. Incidentally, he had stomach problems all his life until surgery for stomach cancer in 1991. After that he had no more stomach problems.

In 1933 Tony and Bernard Cashen, riding with Raymond & Alice [Cashen] Kortenkamp, made a trip to Chicago for the World's Fair -- "A Century of Progress International Exposition". Tony & Bernard stayed with Tony's cousin, Joe Holscher.

Anton/"Tony" Kortenkamp and Ruth Tegeler were married November 4, 1936, in St. Francis Xavier Church, Dyersville, Iowa. Ruth had sewn her white satin wedding dress and made her wedding cake; the dinner was at her parents' home, cooked and served by her Aunts Irene Tegeler and Lizzie Meyer. The next day Tony & Ruth drove on a honeymoon trip to Chicago (in Tony's 1928 or 29 Chevrolet purchased in 1936). They stayed in Cicero in a hotel near Al Capone's headquarters -- the only hotel they could afford. They toured the Museum of Science and Industry, Field Natural History Museum, and Brookfield Zoo.

Returning from Chicago, Ruth & Tony moved in with Tony's parents, Simon and Catherine, on the "Kortenkamp Farm" at Aurora.⁸⁹ Four months later his parents bought a house in Oelwein and retired there. Tony & Ruth rented the farm; and farmed it with a team of horses. It was here that their first son, Daniel John, was born -- in the dining room of the farm house, with kerosene lamp lighting -- February 5, 1938. This was the same year they bought a 1930 Model A Ford, which Tony drove until about 1950. On December 20, 1939, Leon Paul was born at St. Francis Hospital, Oelwein.

Farm prices were so low that it was impossible to make a profit on the farm. Also, Tony had several allergies which made farming difficult – allergy to horses, to pollen, etc. In the spring of 1941 Tony and Ruth moved to Independence, Iowa. They rented a house at 205 4th Street for one year, before buying one at 208 5th Ave. Tony worked selling Watkins products door-to-door, delivering milk for a dairy, and eventually commuting to Rath Meat Packing Plant in Waterloo, where he worked on the loading dock (60¢ hour).

On Sunday, December 7, 1941, the Japanese Navy attacked Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and WWII began. Tony and Ruth learned about the attack on Monday from the man delivering fuel oil to the house. A few months after Pearl Harbor Tony quit his job at Rath's over a dispute with the foreman. Tony was not eligible for the military draft because of stomach surgery for an ulcer when a teenager. He then went to sheet metal school in Des Moines. He was hoping to get a job in the shipyards in Seattle, but learned there was no housing for families.

Tony then went to work replacing ties on a section gang for the Rock Island Railroad (50¢ hour) until being laid off in January 1943 because of the frozen ground. It was then that Ruth and Tony saw an ad in the Waterloo paper that ⁸⁹ The "Kortenkamp Farm" was purchased by Henry Kortenkamp, Sr., in 1896. It was later purchased by his son, Simon, and by his sons Anton and Raymond. It was later bought by Raymond's son, Norbert, who in turn passed it on to his son, Donald/"Duke". This farm has been in the Kortenkamp family for over 100 years, and has been designated a "Century Farm" by the State of Iowa.

Northwest Airlines, St. Paul, Minnesota, was hiring workers to modify bombers at $1.15 hour.⁹⁰ They drove to Waterloo where Tony interviewed for the job, took a physical, and was hired. They quickly sold their house in Independence, and in February Tony went to St. Paul. Ruth stayed behind until Tony could find housing in St. Paul. A month later, on March 25th, he moved his family into a downstairs apartment at 309 Fuller Ave., St. Paul. The truck driver with their furniture did not arrive that day, so Ruth and Tony took out the seat cushions from their Model A to make a bed for their children to sleep on.

When Tony first arrived for work at Northwest Airlines, Bomber Modification Center No. 12, Holman Airfield, South St. Paul (also now known as St. Paul Downtown Airport) he was sent to school for a month to learn the complete structure of a bomber and get some sheet metal training. His first job was with a stowage crew on night shift in Hanger 109. The stowage crew removed parts from inside the bombers (cushions, radios, etc.), covered the engines with canvas, and replaced the parts after modifications were finished. These crews rotated shifts every two weeks. Ruth was pregnant and due any day. Tony asked to be put on days so he could be home at night when Ruth went to the hospital (the woman and her mother who lived upstairs could babysit Dan and Leon during the day). Tony was placed on the gun crew, which was day work. The gun crew cleaned and oiled the .50 caliber machine guns on the B-24s. They had to be oiled weekly. Later a new kind of oil was used, and the guns only needed oiling monthly. It was during this time that a third son was born, Edwin Charles, October 31, 1943, at St. Joseph Hospital, Ramsey Co., St. Paul.

Tony eventually worked on a B-24 modification crew as a riveter (his rivet bucking partner was Muriel Newstrom). Their first job was installing escape hatches for tail and waist gunners so they would not have to crawl through the bomb bay to reach the escape hatch over the wing (the bomb bay quickly flooded if the plane went down in water). He also installed Plexiglas windows, gunnery ports, and ball turrets. Toward the end of the war he would remove the ball turrets and install radar dishes for the new highly-classified H2X radar, which played a significant role in bombing missions during the last year of the war. Frank Uram was crew chief, Tritabaugh was foreman of the crews, and Lynch was Hanger Supervisor.⁹¹

Tony now had steady employment that he liked, and was making $1.15 an hour. The war years were good for Tony and Ruth and their three sons, and they were all enjoying the benefits of a large city. While living in St. Paul, Ruth entered her embroidery of the Cologne Cathedral in the “Fancy Work” competition of the Minnesota State Fair. She won Grand Prize.

World War II ended on September 2, 1945 with the formal surrender of Japan aboard the USA battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay. And with the end of the war, Tony had to look for another job. He worked in a toy factory, ski factory, battery factory, chicken processing plant, etc. It was hard finding a decent job. Finally, in November, his brother-in-law John Cashen found him a job at Oelwein Motors, the Chrysler and Plymouth dealership, in Oelwein, Iowa.⁹² He started by doing oil changes, installing tailpipes and mufflers, etc. (i.e., a “grease monkey”). However, through reading books, observing and talking with the other mechanics, he taught himself auto mechanics; and worked his way up to full-time auto mechanic.

Tony & Ruth bought a house at 820 3rd Ave., SW, in Oelwein. Although there was no indoor plumbing, it was ideal for raising a family -- the last house on a dead-end street at the edge of town. There was space for a large garden, and their three sons had a safe street in which to play ball and other neighborhood games such as “Fifty Scatter”, “Frying Pan”, “Red Rover”, etc. There were also nearby woods and Otter Creek to explore. Grandpa and Grandma Kortenkamp ⁹⁰ As WWII progressed, more airplanes were needed fast. Basic B-24 bombers came off the Ford Motor Company assembly line in Willow Run, Dearborn, Michigan (one bomber every 56 minutes), and were flown various places for modification. Northwest Airlines contracted with the Army Air Corps to run a modification center in St. Paul beginning in May 1942. Two large hangers were built at Holman Field, each holding thirteen B-24s. The center’s most important contribution to the war effort came in 1943 when it began equipping planes with the new H2X radar system for the Nordon bombsight (nicknamed the “Mickey set”), which made bombing possible through overcast and at night. By the time the center closed in 1945, it had modified 3,286 bombers, and at its peak in 1943, had employed 5,000 workers. The B-24 first flew in December 1939; and was designed for a speed of 300 mph, a range of 3,000 miles, and an altitude of 30,000 ft. It is the most produced American aircraft of all time – 18,479 built at five manufacturing locations. It flew more missions and dropped more bombs than any other aircraft.

⁹¹ Tony told the story about once when he was working alone in a B-24, and it started to move. He didn’t know what was happening. After a few minutes the bomber stopped. Then there was a thunderous noise and the whole plane shook. The bomber had been towed to the gunnery range where the .50 caliber guns were tested, and somebody had begun firing the guns. It was quite a thrill for Tony. After the plane was towed back, he went up to the guns and recovered some shells that had been fired. Those shells are now in a shadow box made of aircraft aluminum by Matt Mikel. There is also a picture of Holman Field in the shadow box that was taken by Tony in 1945, and a clico tool, some clicos and rivets Tony used in his work at the modification center.

⁹² Walter P. Chrysler built his first car in Oelwein in 1908 in the barn behind his house at 7 5th Avenue SE. He was Superintendent of Motive Power for the Chicago Great Western Railroad. He had never driven a car before, and upon leaving the barn he immediately lost control and went into a neighbor’s garden, needing to be pulled out by a team of horses. [Vincent Curcio. (2000). lived just two blocks away at 710 2nd Ave. Sacred Heart School was just three blocks away, cutting through Grandpa and Grandma's yard and alley.

After two years, in 1947, Tony went to work as a mechanic for Barney Hall at the Dodge and Plymouth garage. A year later he went to work for Glen Heater as a garage mechanic. His longest employment was next with King Brothers Oelwein Implement Co., from 1952 until 1966. They had the Packard dealership, and Tony was their Packard mechanic. He learned to overhaul automatic transmissions, and when taking them apart would hang a "Do not disturb" sign on his workbench. He eventually got a reputation as the best Packard mechanic in northeast Iowa. He enjoyed telling stories of his work. One day a lawyer from Cedar Rapids brought in his Packard for a tune up. After tuning it up, Tony took it for a test drive on Highway 3 east of Oelwein. He got it up to 120 mph, and it ran perfectly.

King Brothers also had the International Harvester dealership, and Tony became their semi truck mechanic. He had a reputation for being the best semi truck mechanic in northeast Iowa – getting the most miles between engine overhauls.⁹³ It was during this time that Tony and Ruth had their daughter, Marilyn Rose, born April 27, 1953, at Mercy Hospital.

Ruth and Tony had four children:

In February of 1954, Tony and Ruth moved to an 8-acre farm/acreage just beyond the city limits of Oelwein going out 10th Ave. SW. There was a red brick house with a red barn on a hill. Here they had several milk cows, raised chickens and had two large gardens on two acres. They could make a little extra money selling milk and eggs, and do quite a bit of canning from the garden to save money on groceries. The remaining 6 acres were farmed as alfalfa, corn, etc.

When working on trucks became too difficult for Tony, he left Oelwein Implement, after 14 years, and took a job in the mainenance department at Mercy Hospital, Oelwein. He was there eight years until 1974, when he quit because of problems with the new administration. He returned to being an auto mechanic, taking a job at Knief Motors, the American Motors and Chrysler-Plymouth dealership in Oelwein. After two years, in 1976, Tony retired.

During retirement, Tony and Ruth continued working their large gardens, but rented out the rest of the land. Tony also supplemented their retirement income by doing small engine repair, primarily lawn motors. They lived on the acreage for 27 years. In June 1981 they had an auction and sold the acreage, moving to 1416 Madison St., Cedar Falls, Iowa. Here they keep a small garden; and, for awhile, Tony did small engine repair. Tony and Ruth celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1986 with a large Kortenkamp and Tegeler family gathering and dinner. They celebrated their 60th Wedding Anniversary in 1996.

Mrs. Anton Kortenkamp (Ruth Tegeler) died of idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis, August 17, 2000, at Allen Hospital, Waterloo, Iowa. She was age 85. Burial was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville, Iowa.

After living alone for several years, Tony moved into an assisted living apartment at Village Ridge Apartments, Marion, Iowa, in October 2004. This was just across the street from Ed's Spray and Shine carwash; in fact, Tony could see the wash from his living room window. Tony continued to drive his 1991 Buick until he was 96 years old, when he finally sold it.

While living at Village Ridge, Tony ate meals at a table for four. He had some interesting table mates. Fred Gilbert was a Jewish refuge from Poland. During WWII he spent five years in 19 different concentration camps. His parents, brothers and sisters, all perished during WWII. He later married a woman who was also a holocaust survivor. Fred was fluent in Yiddish, Polish, German, Czech, Russian and English, and served as a translator during the Nuremberg Trials.⁹⁴ Another tablemate was Aldrich "Ozzie" Drahos, a B-24 bomber pilot during WWII.⁹⁵

⁹³ Tony is mentioned several times and pictured in Royce King's self-published (2006) book – A history of the Oelwein Implement Company, Oelwein, Iowa: A personal recollection.

⁹⁴ Obituary, Cedar Rapids Gazette, 2009. Fred "F.R." Gilbert (Felek Gebotszrajber), 90, of Cedar Rapids and Los Angeles, Calif., died Monday, Oct. 26, 2009. Services: 1 p.m. today at Temple Judah by Rabbi Todd Thalblum. Burial: Eben Israel Cemetery. Cedar Memorial Westside Chapel, Cedar Rapids is entrusted with the arrangements. Fred is survived by a son, Jack Gilbert of Albany, Calif.; and two daughters, Doris (Gary) Gilbert-Stieger of San Francisco, Calif., and Lena Gilbert of Springville. He was preceded in death by his parents, brothers and sisters, who all perished during World War II; and his cherished wife, Ann, of 62 years, on Dec. 13, 2008.

Fred was born on Feb. 15, 1919, in Warsaw, Poland, to Josef and Doba Gebotszrajber. He married Ann Gilbert (Chana Zylberstajn) on Jan. 2, 1946, in Scwabisch Hall, Germany, where he was appointed chief of police. He and Ann lived in Cedar Rapids from 1949 to 1986, where he was the general manager for purchasing and sales for E. Cohn and Sons, retiring in 1985. Fred was an active member of Temple Judah and in the community. He was a lifetime member of B'nai Brit.

He and Ann both were Holocaust survivors. He spent over five years in 19 different concentration camps and was liberated in April 1945. Fred and Ann lectured frequently about their experiences. They lived in Los Angeles, Calif., from 1986 to 2003, and were very active in the survivor

Anton Kortenkamp celebrated his 100th birthday in June 2010. Approximately 100 relatives and friends attended a party held at a shelter in Squaw Creek Park, Marion, Iowa. In October 2010 he had a stroke, and moved to Northbrook Manor Care Center, Cedar Rapids. He died there October 25. Burial was in St Francis Xavier Cemetery, Dyersville, Iowa.

community. He and Ann were regular speakers at the Simon Wiesenthal Center and Museum of Tolerance in Los Angeles. In 2003, he and Ann returned to Cedar Rapids, to be near Lena. Fred was devoted to his wife, Ann, and always held her in highest regard; especially her cooking talents. Fred took great pride in having served as an interpreter at the Nuremberg Trials and enjoyed his lifelong fluency in Yiddish, Polish, German, Czech, Russian and English. Fred's great sense of humor and patriotism impressed everyone he met and he shall be greatly missed

⁹⁵ World War II bombing run ended in Sweden: Marion man shares stories from B-24, wife's role in war.

By Dick Hogan, Freelance writer, Cedar Rapids Gazette (July 5, 2009)

MARION - Aldrich "Ozzie" Drahos was flying a B-24 on bombing raids over Germany during World War II before he ended up sitting out part of the war in neutral Sweden. He also ended up marrying a Cedar Rapids woman who'd served as the model for a series of Coca-Cola ads and who took wartime dictation from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Drahos' time in Sweden began June 22, 1944, when his plane, the Carol Marie, was damaged by anti-aircraft fire while on a bombing run over a synthetic oil plant in Politz, Germany. The 22-year-old second lieutenant from Cedar Rapids was the pilot, on his sixth mission of World War II (His first had been bombing ahead of Allied lines during the D-Day invasion at Normandy, France, earlier that month.). The B-24 started into a tailspin, but Drahos and his co-pilot leveled it off while the rest of the crew tossed out all they could to lighten the plane. Only one of the plane's four engines was working, recalled Drahos, now 87 and living in Marion. They had a choice: Bail out, go down in Germany or try to fly across the Baltic Sea and land in neutral Sweden.

The effort to get to Sweden was going well when three German fighters approached. The guns on Drahos' B-24 were out of ammunition. Drahos told his crew that if the fighters attacked, he would drop the landing gear as a signal to bail out. But fate smiled. The three fighter planes roared by without firing a shot. "That was the only time I got really worried, when I saw those three German fighters," he said. "I think they didn't have enough fuel to attack or had no ammunition." He also thinks that "when God looked at us, I think he said, 'You are not good enough to come to heaven and not bad enough to go to hell. I'm letting you stay on Earth for you to decide where you want to go.'" The bomber - with 200 bullet holes in it - sputtered across the Baltic Sea and landed on a grass field at Malmo, Sweden, one of 40 Allied planes landing there that day. Three crashed, losing their crews. No one on the Carol Marie was hurt. "We were treated as heroes," Drahos said. "It was a neutral country." The war was over for them. "We were called interned POWs," he said. "We were treated unbelievably well." After five months, he said, "it was our turn to escape". An unarmed, stripped-down B-24 flew into Stockholm's airport in bad weather and took the crew to England, where they were told they would go home. The Nazis, they were told, had their pictures and names, and if they returned to combat and were captured, they could be shot as escaped POWs.

Drahos, who was born in Czechoslovakia but came to the United States when he was a year old, was a military transport pilot for the rest of the war, flying all types of aircraft across the United States. He stayed in the reserves until the 1970s, retiring as a lieutenant colonel.

Drahos and his fiancée, Miriam Stehlik, joined the service in December 1941, right after the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor. She went to the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps while he waited to train as a pilot in the Army Air Corps, an opportunity that came in 1943. Meanwhile, Miriam went to Africa, where her command of shorthand put her in demand to record information from highly secret meetings. She was on Eisenhower's staff and worked with top British brass, Drahos said. He recalled that Miriam was once summoned to take dictation from Churchill. She "borrowed" a cigar from Gen. Mark Clark's desk and gave it to Churchill. He gave her one of his, which she kept as a souvenir. Before they got down to the business of dictation, Churchill asked if Miriam could sew a button on his pants, which she did. She returned to Cedar Rapids from Africa to marry Drahos on Nov. 3, 1943.

Before the war, Drahos said, Miriam modeled for the national Powers Modeling company and was featured in national Coca-Cola ads and on billboards. For some reason, he said, they never used her natural hair color, auburn. Some of those ads still hang on his apartment wall more than 10 years after Miriam's death. It was movie star Joan Crawford who persuaded Miriam that modeling was not what she should be doing. Miriam was at a party that the Powers' models were hired to attend, and sometimes the men at those events got big ideas, Drahos said. Crawford thought the young Iowan seemed uncomfortable and told her "modeling was not her thing. This is not the life for you." Miriam agreed and came home.

After the war, the Drahoses hosted then-President Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, when they visited Cedar Rapids in 1958.
